FATAL BULLET FOR TEETERS

Well-Known Police Captain Shot by Lieut. Welsh at Pistol Range.

CARTRIDGE WAS BAD

Exploded as He Was Examining Brother Officer's Marksmanship.

DIED AT THE HOSPITAL

Police Capt. Albert M. Teeters, connected with No. 6 police station in Frankstown avenue, was shot and almost instantly killed by Lieut. Jeremiah Welsh in the pistol range in the cellar of the Frankstown avenue police station this morning. Capt. Teeters was immediately removed to the East End hospital, where he died shortly after being admitted. The shooting was an accident.

Capt. Teeters, with Lieut. Welsh, Inspector Milton E. Bailey and a number of officers went to the pistol range in the cellar to practice on pistol shooting. After several of the others had taken their turns at the target Lieut. Welsh's turn came and one of the cartridges in his revolver missed fire. He discharged the other six cartridges at the target and then Capt. Teeters went to the target to examine it and look at the excellence of Welsh's shots.

Suddenly there was an explosion and Teeters dropped below the target, the cartridge in Welsh's revolver which had missed fire had exploded. The horrified companions of Lieut. Welsh summoned Dr. George Clark, whose office is next door to the police station, and he ordered Capt. Teeters removed to the hospital, where the officer died at 12:50 o'clock.

Director Harry Moore of the department of public safety, Superintendent Alexander Wallace of the police bureau and Inspector Robinson were at once notified of the shooting of Capt. Teeters. Teeters' body was removed to the morgue.

Capt. Teeters lived in Hastings street and is survived by a large family. He was 58 years old and had been a member of the Pittsburgh bureau of police for many years. He was a patrolman until a few years ago.

Lieut. Welsh was recently appointed to No. 6 police station.

Recently Director Moore had ordered the officers to resume target practice at the ranges and also exercising in the gymnasiums at the various city police stations. It was in pursuance of this order that the officers had collected for practice at the Frankstown station this morning. Capt. Teeters was one of the best known officers of the Pittsburgh force and since his connection with police bureau he had been given many dangerous assignments and he had performed his duties so carefully that he was rapidly promoted to vacancies when they occurred by his superiors.

Lieut. Welsh is almost distracted over the accident and was immediately relieved from duty. At the East End hospital the physicians found that the bullet had entered Capt. Teeter's body in the right side, almost under the arm, and had gone through the lungs and in a downward course. Although every effort was made to stop the internal bleeding caused by the bullet, Capt. Teeters failed rapidly and expired while the physicians were working with him.

Lieut. Welsh was brought in under guard and locked in a cell at central station shortly after Capt. Teeters died. Superintendent Wallace, Assistant Superintendent Kennelly and Inspector Bailey at once began an investigation of the accident. Lieut. Welsh will be held till the investigation is concluded.

GHOST NIGHTGOWNED GIRL ON A BICYCLE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

FORT DODGE, IA., Oct. 21.—The ghostly apparition which at different times has startled belated pedestrians in Fort Dodge was run down after an exciting chase tonight by two young men on bicycles and proved to be a young society girl, a daughter of Ralph Kittridge, a prominent business man, who had acquired the strange habit of taking midnight bicycle rides in her sleep, clad only in her nightdress.

For many weeks at a certain hour this white-robed figure has made its appearance, pedalling wildly down the avenue for several squares, with the spectral drapery flying behind. In a few minutes, if the watchers remained to see, the figure would come back at the same pace and pass from sight at the point where it first appeared. The ghost became the talk of the town and the wise ones had predicted it portended dire disaster to the community.

While Miss Hoffman and Later were engaged she loaned him $125.

HAITIANS READY FOR REBELLION

MINISTER DAWSON REPORTS

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The Royal Dutch West Indian mail steamship Prins Der Nederland, arrived this morning at the foot of Degraw street, from Amsterdam via Porto Prince. The passengers said that no revolution had broken out in Haiti up to the time the ship sailed, but there were strong rumors that the revolutionary forces were assembling to depose the president. They said the country is in a deplorable condition. Exchange is at 510 and has been as high as 620, and no one can tell from one hour to another what the fluctuations may be. They are liable to change 12 or 15 times a day. The government employes are lucky if they receive payment three or four months out of the year at the rate of 84 in gold a month.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—According to Mr. Dawson, American minister to Santo Domingo, the government there is making extensive preparations to suppress the threatening revolution. Under date of October 8, he reports to the state department that the government continues actively organizing, drilling and arming its troops. An order was given a short time ago for 20,000 rifles and considerable quantity of ammunition. No recent reports have been received as to probable importations of arms on the part of the revolutionists.

VIOLINIST KILLS HIMSELF, DREADING FRANKO'S TEST

He Was to Have Been Given Trial Today for Metropolitan Opera House Orchestra.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—On the eve of his acceptance as a violinist by the director of the Metropolitan opera house orchestra, Max Guhlka, a young American, whose musical studies in Europe have been facilitated by a wealthy woman, who conceals her identity, committed suicide late this afternoon by shooting himself in the forehead. He had been playing his violin for hours just before he ended his life. He was 25 years old and single.

He was accepted formally today, subject to a trial tomorrow by Nahan Franko, whose pupil Guhlka was 12 years ago. The indications are he had unwarranted doubts about his ability to meet tomorrow's test, in the face of the fact that he was considered a "find."

It was late in the evening when a knock came to the door. Mr. Edgar responded and found a man and woman in a buggy. They asked the preacher to marry them, but did not desire to get out of the vehicle, as the rain was falling in torrents and they were tightly wrapped in water proof robes. A light was secured and Mr. Edgar read the marriage ceremony.

RACE SUICIDE A NATIONAL PERIL

WORST AMONG COLLEGIANS

Race suicide was declared today by the Actuarial Society of America, at its final session of the semi-annual convention, held in the Bellevue-Stratford, to be one of the most serious problems this country has to face. The question was discussed by the actuaries at a secret session. Afterward it was announced that figures had been presented which demonstrated that the decline in the birth rate in the United States is even more startling than was set forth by President Roosevelt, when he first gave prominence to the subject.

The actuaries have made a thorough investigation as to the birth rate among college graduates, and they find that the average birth rate among college graduates is less than two children. This being the case, it was pointed out, the average college man and his wife have but one child, and, in the opinion of the actuaries, this one child represents the mother as much as it does the father, and, therefore, as the actuaries phrased it, the college graduate does not reproduce himself.

Harvard university was made the subject of an especially careful investigation along this line, and the result obtained, the actuaries claim, substantiates their theory.

CHESTER D. POTTER.

MUSICAL CONDUCTOR BRINGS 200 SHIRTS

Arthur Vigna of Metropolitan Opera House Will Not Trust Our Laundrymen.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Arthur Vigna, one of the conductors at the Metropolitan opera house, who arrived from Europe on the Deutschland, brought 200 shirts, which he said today would be sufficient to last him during the season of grand opera. Mr. Vigna said rather than have his linen mutilated in the machinery of New York laundries, he had brought two trunks filled with shirts which he would take back to Italy next spring to have laundered.

The customs officials who inspected Mr. Vigna's trunks were long in understanding that he was not going to become the American representative of a European shirt manufactory, and for a time it looked as if the conductor would have to pay duty on his linen. Finally it occurred to him to show the inspectors that his initials were worked on each of the 200 shirts, and the trouble was at an end.

STOP HAZING AT WELLESLEY

"SCRAMBLED LIKE AN EGG"

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WELLESLEY, MASS., Oct. 21.—Hazing of the freshman girls by the sophomore class must cease, say the faculty of Wellesley college, and today a notice was posted on the college bulletin board. The "freshies" think that sophomore hazing this year in Wellesley is the limit.

"Hazing in Wellesley!" exclaimed one little "freshie" to the reporter. "Well they say there never was such hazing before in Wellesley as this year.

"How'd you like to get down on the floor and scramble like an egg?" she asked wrathfully. "I did it."

"Scrambled?" asked the reporter.

"Yes, I scrambled for all I was worth with those mean sophomores laughing fit to kill. Pretty figure I must have cut."

"Did you scramble like an egg?" queried the reporter.

"One of the sophs said I looked like an egg, the horrid thing. They blindfolded some of us and led us through the grounds at dusk telling us at each step that we were about to fall into a pit. One poor little homesick girl nearly had hysterics. Some freshmen were made to stand in the corner and 'look like a piece of cheese!' Silly isn't it? Well, every dog has his day."

FALSE NEWS OF LEGACY CAUSED JOHN CARR'S DEATH

Talked About Money Wife Didn't Get; Until He Became Crazy and Died.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

UTICA, N. Y., Oct. 21.—A dream of sudden riches cost John Carr of Herkimer, his reason and his life. During the summer of 1903 his wife received word that through the death of Jeremiah Palmer of Brooklyn, of whom she was a relative, she would inherit about $25,000. Carr at that time had a shoe shining stand near the postoffice. He immediately gave it away and commenced to talk about his fortune and what he was going to do with it.

It was learned a few days later that Palmer left a will, and that by it his property went to a niece whom the testator had adopted. Mrs. Carr then went to Brooklyn to see about the matter, and meanwhile her husband continued to talk of his riches and finally became insane.

He swore at every incoming train because it did not bring his wife and the money. He caused such a disturbance that he was arrested and committed to the state hospital at Utica. There he died today.

BRYAN SAYS HE FORCED PARKER

Made Him Accept Philippine Policy—Pleads for Party's Life.

GASSAWAY SNUBBED

LATTER IS GOING TO OHIO

SPECIAL TELEGRAM FROM Walter J. Christy, Staff Correspondent.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., Oct. 21.—In the hope of holding all of the Democrats who voted for Bryan in 1900, the Nebraskan was brought into West Virginia today for a two-days' rapid fire engagement. He is urging those who stood by him in the two campaigns to cast their ballots for Parker in order that the "party may be kept alive." "Let them have the organization for a while" was his advice to the Democracy of Parkersburg.

There was not a word of commendation for Parker. While Bryan spoke in words of praise of "Uncle Gassaway," he had nothing good or bad to say of the party's candidate for president. He did make the statement that he forced Parker to accept his Philippine policy. Neither was there a word uttered that would indicate that Bryan thinks that the Democracy has a hope of winning this time. The whole burden of his talk is along the line that the other fellows have the organization now, and it is the duty of his friends to keep the party alive until such time as he is ready to again take control. His dislike for Parker and the Wall street crowd behind him is made apparent by his silence.

Uncle Gassaway Almost Trampled.

Poor old "Uncle Gassaway" was playing second fiddle today. For 10 days he has been the main attraction, but when Bryan came to town the 5,000 or 6,000 Democrats gathered here to welcome him, lost sight of the old man, who wants the duty off everything but coal. Had it not been for four policemen Davis would have been trampled in the rush to greet the Nebraskan, after he had made his speech. "Uncle Gassaway" was deserted.

The meeting was held in the court house square. A platform was built on the east steps of the county building and the crowd occupied most of the space in the square from Market street to the jail. The windows of the prison faced the speakers' stand and several inmates stood at the grated windows, finding a little diversion in watching the crowd and hearing the twice defeated candidate for president rant about imperialism.

Bryan reached Parkersburg at 3:20 from the west. He was met at the station by Davis and County Chairman Schirmer. There was a parade to the court house and a cannon on Fort Boreman boomed out some kind of a salute. At the speakers' stand C. Wood Dailey, attorney for "Uncle Gassaway," had been working for half an hour to hold the crowd. He was telling the people of tax reform and of the greatness of his client.

Enthusiastic Reception for Bryan.

Bryan was given an enthusiastic reception, "Uncle Gassaway" was allowed to hold the great man's coat and the crowd showed no disposition to disturb him. Bryan opened his speech by thanking Davis for having stood by him in the two occasions he had endeavored to be elected president.

"Four years ago," said he, "when gold Democrats were turning from me, Senator Davis welcomed me to West Virginia. I am glad to return the compliment now by trying to do all I can to help him."

It was about this time that some one yelled: "How about Panama?" while "Uncle Gassaway" hugged Bryan's coat and bowed his acknowledgment of the receipt of the Nebraskan's box of salve. Bryan said that he would take up Panama later. Bryan apologized for his support of Parker and the rejection of free silver.

He said that personally he still stands for everything that he had advocated for eight years, but announced that in comparison with imperialism, human rights and the Declaration of Independence, the money question is insignificant.

"If I did not help Parker this time," said he, "I would be helping Roosevelt, and I cannot afford to do that. This is no time to get even. We must keep the party alive."

Made Parker Accept His Plan.

In discussing imperialism, Bryan said that he had forced Parker to take his plan. He remarked that Parker stands now just "where I did four years ago."

"Give Parker and Davis all the votes," said he, "that you gave me. I tried to save the country from imperialism and failed. I am now going to help Parker save it. It will be my victory and yours."

Bryan made a weak attempt to reply to Speaker Cannon's criticism of the Nebraskan's Philippine policy. He said that when Cannon speaks connection between tongue and brain is sometimes lacking. When "Uncle Joe" hears this he will doubtless show Bryan where he is wrong. Bryan was also agitated about the size of the regular army, working himself into a fever heat over the fact that today there is actually one-fourteenth hundredths of a soldier for every man in the United States. Bryan talked for an hour and was then hurried away by John T. McGraw to catch the 5 o'clock train for Huntington, where he talked tonight.

"Uncle Gassaway" bowed to the crowd, but did not endeavor to deliver an address, and there did not appear to be any disappointment.

Davis turned his private car Graceland over to Bryan and he will use it in

ANOTHER JOLT FOR BIG DEAL

RENTAL IS INSERTED

MEETING CALLED FOR MONDAY

The traction and electric light deal, promoted by the Hall and Verner syndicates and the city administration, got another jolt in common council yesterday afternoon. Although the Duquesne light ordinance was passed on second reading and all amendments defeated, including a compensation clause, the three traction ordinances were held up. One of them was amended to provide for an annual rental of $25,000, another was referred to a special committee of five and the third is still on the president's desk, not having been called up before council adjourned at 5:35, having been in session for two hours and a half.

President Ward last evening called another special session of common council for Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. He issued the call after consulting Director Bigelow and Murry A. Verner, who were in the mayor's office, as usual, during the council meeting.

While the lobbyists have a strong line-up on the Duquesne light ordinance, their lines are broken on the traction measures, but they claim they will have every member supporting the trolley bills on Monday that voted for the Duquesne light ordinance yesterday.

Three Republicans Regained.

Every Republican except W. R. Bailey of the Seventeenth ward, voted against the Duquesne light ordinance, and every Republican, with the exception of Joel Gibbon and C. C. Kohne voted against the traction ordinances. Bailey's attitude is explained by the fact that he holds a position with the Pittsburgh and Allegheny Telephone Company. Gibbon is also said to have business interests connected with the Pittsburgh Railways Company, which explains his support of that company.

The Republicans yesterday regained three of the four Republicans who voted for the Hall ordinance Wednesday night. Those who came back to the Republican ranks were Dr. A. M. Barr of the Eighteenth ward, D. K. Barton of the Twenty-fifth ward and John Lewis of the Twenty-eighth ward.

"I was taught a lesson," said Dr. Barr, "and you can wager all you have that I will not go with them again. I was deceived."

All Amendments Defeated.

The feature of the fight over the Duquesne light ordinance was the appearance before councils of J. G. Splane, president of the Pittsburgh and Allegheny Telephone Company, and a director of the Duquesne Light Company. He said the Duquesne Light Company would reduce the price of light from 25 to 33 per cent and would sell light to the city at the rate of $75 an arc light, whereas the city is now paying $96 an arc light, but when amendments fixing a maximum rate of $75 an arc light for the city was proposed Splane and his fellow promoters used their influence to have the amendment defeated.

A number of amendments were offered, but every one was lost, including the one presented by A. G. Roenigk to reinsert the 5 per cent compensation clause which was stricken out in select council. Roenigk's amendment was preceded by a speech by William Brand.

"This ordinance is before us in an unfair manner and is unjust to the people of Pittsburgh," said Brand. "This company said it was in favor of competition and would pay for any franchise given it by councils, and the company incorporated in its ordinance what they offered, 5 per cent of its gross receipts. Afterward it wiped out its pledge to the city and withdraws its offer when it found there was to be no competition.

Monopoly Will Absorb.

"This corporation asks for a valuable franchise that, if granted, will go into the hands of the monopoly that now throttles the throat of the people of Pittsburgh. The minority on this side of the house cannot stop this bill because it has not the votes, and the administration will be responsible for this outrageous legislation."

Roenigk asked that the 5 per cent compensation clause, which was section 3, stricken out by select council, be read. This was done and Roenigk moved that it be reinserted in the ordinance. In support of his motion Roenigk made a very unique plea.

"I will vote for the ordinance even with this section out," he said. "I will vote more heartily for the ordinance with the amendment in and less heartily for it with the amendment out."

William H. Johns of the Fourteenth ward objected to voting for the measure without knowing definitely what the company proposed to do. "The only persons who seem to be pushing these ordinances are city officials who are sworn to protect the city's interests," he said.

Martin Interrogates Ward.

"What is the object of railroading these ordinances through?" Councilman W. A. Martin of the Sixteenth ward demanded, addressing his remarks to President Ward.

"I cannot answer that question," replied Ward.

"I thought you could," retorted Martin, "because you called the meeting. What did you call the meeting for?"

"I had personal reasons for calling the meeting," answered the presiding officer.

Some excitement was caused at this stage by Brand rising and demanding that lobbyists be excluded from the floor. He called the attention of the president to the rule that permits only the mayor, heads of departments, the controller, members and representatives of the press on the floor.

"Outsiders and city officials have come on the floor, interrupting the proceedings, occupying seats and talking to members, and even taking them out of the chamber," said Brand.

"I hope the gentleman will not insist upon this rule being enforced," said Ward, "because it has not been enforced before."

Hot Shot at Lobbyists.

"I won't insist if you will see that the rule is not violated as it has been the past couple of meetings and that persons who come on the floor do not interrupt the proceedings and attempt to influence the action of this body," said Brand, and the matter was dropped.

C. W. Helmold said he was heartily in favor of the ordinance as it stood and declared that he knew the company would not sell out. He asked that President Hall of the Duquesne Light Company be heard. J. G. Splane appeared instead of President Hall, and stated Mr. Hall was out of the city. Splane was granted the floor and he denied the assertion the Duquesne Light Company intended to sell out to the Philadelphia Company.

"If councils and the mayor grant this franchise we promise active and keen competition," he said. "As soon as the ordinance becomes a law we will proceed at once to compete for the city lighting contract. We have 80 per cent of our pole lines and conduits laid and we will soon have the system completed. These poles and conduits are the property of the Pittsburgh & Allegheny Telephone Company and we are asking councils to give us the right to use them."

Splane Dodged Proposition.

In reply to Brand's question if the company would sell out, Splane said: "I say most emphatically no, and any man who says that we will sell out has not a scintilla of fact upon which to base such a statement."

"When your company presented this ordinance to councils did it intend to carry out all provisions of it?" asked Brand.

"I don't know what provisions you refer to particularly, but if you mean the compensation clause, I will say that I suppose the company did intend to carry it out," said Splane.

"Then the company changed its mind," remarked Brand.

"I suppose it did," admitted Splane. "I was opposed on the start to a compensation clause in the ordinance and a majority of the board of directors were similarly inclined. I was convicted that we could not go into competition with the Allegheny County Light Company and pay the city any compensation. The Duquesne Light Company will make the prices of electric light from 25 to 33 per cent cheaper than they are now."

"If you can afford to cut prices from 25 to 33 per cent could you not reduce prices, say 20 per cent, and pay the city 5 per cent compensation?" asked Martin.

Avoided Direct Answer.

"Well, that is a matter that would have to be regulated by competition," said Splane, avoiding a direct answer.

"Will you agree to furnish the city with light at $75 per arc light per year, as Councilman Helmold has stated here this afternoon?" asked Brand.

"Yes, I will agree not to charge the city more than $75 per arc light," said Splane.

"Will you agree to such an amendment being put in the ordinance?" asked Brand.

"I have no personal objection to it, but I do not know that the company would agree," was the way that Splane dodged this proposition.

"Will you agree to an amendment to supply light on any street where there are 25 subscribers on that street?"

"That amendment would not be worth the paper it would be written on," said Splane.

A vote was then taken on Roenigk's motion to reinsert the 5 per cent compensation clause. This motion was defeated by a vote of 28 to 16, every Republican voting for the amendment except Bailey. Three Citizens voted with the Republicans—President Ward, Roenigk and J. W. Rapp.

Passed on Second Reading.

Then Brand presented an amendment fixing $75 per year as the maximum rate for each arc light furnished the city. Hogue moved to lay Brand's amendment on the table. Brand moved that Hogue's motion be postponed two weeks. President Ward declared that the motion to postpone was out of order. Brand took an appeal and President Ward was sustained by a vote of 29 to 15.

An amendment by Brand to bind the company to furnish light to 25 subscribers on any street was lost by a vote of 13 to 29.

Brand then presented an amendment to limit the franchise to 25 years and to compel the company to put its wires under ground, but it was laid on the table by a vote of 30 to 15.

A vote was then taken on the second reading of the ordinance and it was passed by a vote of 31 to 13, as follows:

Ayes—Bailey, Bole, Bright, Collins, Cronmiller, Dengler, Finerty, Hammer, Helmold, Hogue, Hughes, Joyce, Kalenthaler, Maslowski, Mathews, Myers, McKelvey, McNally, O'Brien, Pfankuch, Porter, Rapp, Roenigk, Scott, Shenken, Simon, Taylor, Wallace, Walls, Zenger and President Ward.—31.

Suspension of Rules Failed.

Although he had previously attempted to amend the ordinance, Roenigk then made a motion to suspend the rules to pass the light ordinance finally, but this motion was lost, lacking two votes of the necessary three-fourths of members present. The vote on the suspension of the rules was the same as on the passage on second reading.

Brand called up the Morningside street railway ordinance and a very mixed situation was developed. Roenigk surprised and confused his Citizens colleagues by attacking the traction measures, giving some of his fellow Citizens the impression that it was the administration program to hold them up. Before this impression was corrected by C. W. Helmold being called out of the council chamber, the Morningside ordinance had been sidetracked.

Roenigk objected to the ordinance, because, he said, no plans had been presented to councils, and he moved that it be referred to a special committee of five. This motion prevailed by a vote of 20 to 19.

With the Morningside ordinance thus disposed of, the Federal Street & Pleasant Valley Passenger Railway Company bill, providing for loops in Seventh avenue, Grant street and New Grant street, was taken up and upon this measure a bitter fight was waged, with the result that the opposition won by a narrow margin.

Inserted $25,000 Rental Clause.

The opposition, led by Brand and Roenigk, actually succeeded in inserting in the ordinance a clause requiring the company to pay an annual rental of $25,000, but they failed to complete their work by having the ordinance passed on second reading, thus leaving the bill open to still further amendment at the next meeting, and giving the administration a chance to have the $25,000 rental clause stricken out.

Roenigk moved to refer the ordinance to the same committee to which the Morningside ordinance was sent, but this motion was lost by a vote of 21 to 28. Roenigk moved to amend by inserting a linear tax clause. This was laid on the table by a vote of 27 to 17. Roenigk moved amend by providing that tracks abandoned by the company and streets unoccupied one year after the passage of the ordinance shall revert to the city. This amendment was tabled by a vote of 27 to 17.

The last amendment, proposed by Brand, was for an annual rental of $25,000. Brand declared the Pittsburgh Railways Company should pay for the franchises it already had, and he said the company was not asking for the downtown loops in order to accommodate the public, as Councilman Mathews of the Nineteenth ward alleged, but to prevent any other company from coming into the city.

Brand stated that, instead of increasing its facilities, the company had laid off 14 crews on one circuit. "This monopoly is not giving the public proper accommodations. It gives you nothing but straps to hold on to or sits you on the bumpers and charges you 5 cents. It packs you into the cars like cattle. It does not treat the public half decent."

Gibbon moved to lay Brand's motion on the table. This was lost by a vote of 29 to 23.

Then Richard McNally stirred up a hornet's nest, by asking Brand how he voted last spring on the Verner traction ordinances. Brand made answer:

"Yes, I voted for the Verner ordinances because of promises made on this floor, but they buncoed us, and that is the reason I am against them now," said he. "They promised us competition, but instead of competition they sold out, and that is what they propose to do with the ordinances here today. I can be fooled once, but not twice by the same people."

Overcrowded Car Evil.

G. W. Hammer said he would vote against the amendment because he thought the traction company could not be forced to give better accommodations until a law was passed providing that no fare could be collected from a passenger who did not have a seat in a car. He said this was the law in Europe and would soon end the evil of overcrowded cars if adopted in Pittsburgh.

The $25,000 rental clause was adopted by the following vote, and then common council adjourned:

Ayes—Bailey, Barr, Barton, Bergmann, Brand, Bright, Cronmiller, Dengler, Girdwood, Johns, Kalebthaler, Lewis, Maslowski, Martin, McKnight, O'Brien, Pfankuch, Rapp, Roenigk, Scott, Semmelrock, Walls and President Ward—23.

PANAMA REBELS FIGHTING MARINES

Two Hundred Armed Men Are in Revolt Against the Republic.

DEMOCRATS ARE BLAMED

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]

PANAMA, Oct. 21.—The situation is rapidly reaching an acute stage here and there may be serious trouble at any time. In fact a clash between American marines and armed Panamans is reported to have taken place near Colon in which several men were killed. It has been impossible up to this time to confirm this report.

According to the reports the commander of the American marines who are stationed at Empire heard that 200 armed men were in the vicinity of the big Culebra cut and at once sent out a detachment of marines to investigate. The Americans, it is said, were fired upon and promptly returned the fire, killing and wounding several of their assailants. The others scattered and disappeared in the forest.

While it is impossible to verify the story up to this time, it is regarded as not improbable. Colombian agitators are said to be active among the people fomenting trouble and striving with some success to further embitter the people against the United States. Reports reach here that the Colombians are quietly massing troops both on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts at points where Panama can be most easily reached, and if a revolution is attempted it is regarded as altogether probable that Colombia will take a hand.

WILLIAM H. TAFT,
Secretary of War, Who Has Been Ordered to Panama by the President.

The American officials here hope that trouble can be avoided until Secretary Taft reaches here, but this is considered doubtful by those best informed of conditions in the interior. If there is trouble the most vigorous measures will be taken by the Americans to protect the canal and to keep the canal zone free of fighting.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—(Special.)—Reports which have reached the Washington government indicate that disgruntled elements in Panama are ready for hostile action. Few details of this discontent are divulged. It is said to have been sufficient, however, to prevent a reduction of the force of American marines on the isthmus. A fresh battalion, under Lieut.-Col. Thomas N. Wood, will relieve the battalion now on duty there. The Pacific squadron will soon arrive in Panama. If necessary, a force could be landed from it.

Reports have been current that Democratic agents have been assisting the general growth of discontent in Panama. This cannot be confirmed. A high administration official was today asked if any evidence of such activity had been obtained.

"I do not care to go into a discussion of that," he answered.

President Roosevelt is ready for trouble in Panama. It is stated tonight that his order is to put down at once the first sign of an uprising. The Pacific squadron is to sail for Panama about the 25th inst. from Magdalena bay to Valparaiso. It will stop at Acapulco, Panama, and other ports before reaching Chile.

Orders to this effect were sent to the squadron from San Diego by the torpedo boat Paul Jones. The Paul Jones also carried some dispatches for two of the commanding officers of ships. Here it is said that these orders for the squadron are "only routine" and that the orders to the officers relate only to a change in their position from ship to ship. The movement of the squadron is only one part of the plan to make Secretary Taft's mission of peace one of unqualified success.

Here is a part of the general plan so far developed: The secretary of war is to go to Panama on a warship about November 14. He will be followed by four companies of United States marines. It is said the marines are to relieve the marines now there, but it is also evident that there will be soon eight companies of marines in the canal zone at once.

SAN DIEGO, CAL., Oct. 21.—The torpedo boat destroyer Paul Jones has gone under hurry orders to meet the Pacific squadron, which is supposed to have left Magdalena bay, where target practice has been going on, for Panama. She is bearing dispatches. The boat took on an extra cargo of coal and provisions and steamed out at full speed.

NEW SAYS COLORADO IS FOR ROOSEVELT

He Would Not Be Surprised if the Western State Went Republican by 40,000.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Harry S. New, of the executive committee of the Republican national committee, says the Republicans have no need to lose a wink of sleep over the probable result in Colorado.

"I am absolutely sure," he said, "that the electoral vote of Colorado will go to Roosevelt. I have not made study enough of localities to make a definite prediction on the plurality for the Republican ticket, but I would make the minimum 20,000, and would not be a bit surprised if the state should go 40,000. We are looking only after the national feature of the campaign in that state. Of the state ticket, I am not qualified to talk, further than to say that whatever happens Roosevelt will carry the state. That is the unbiased feeling at headquarters here."

OFFICERS AND BURGLARS BATTLE IN NEW YORK

Three Thieves Fight With Eleven Detectives and Policemen in Bond Street Building—Finally Captured and Imprisoned.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Shrouded in the gloom of the upper floors of the big building at 19 and 21 Bond street, two detectives and nine policemen today battled with three burglars and were finally victorious after one of the most desperate struggles recorded in the annals of the Metropolitan police department.

Armed with heavy jimmies, the thieves, protected by the boxes and bales of cloth which littered the floors, and of which they had prepared to steal $2,500 worth, made a fight against the heavy odds that compelled the admiration even of the detectives and policemen who were their adversaries. Finally, escorted by the entire arresting force the burglars were taken to headquarters, where they were placed in cells.

The attempted burglary was one of the most daring that has been tried in a long time. The thieves gave their names as Samuel Rose, D. Barnett and George Hadley.

RUSSIANS OPEN ARTILLERY FIRE

GENERAL ATTACK IS AVERTED

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

MUKDEN, Oct. 21.—The Russians yesterday opened an artillery fire upon Shanke station, where there seemed to be a Japanese outpost, watching the Russian movements. The guns were then trained on the village of Lamatung, a little east of the station. The Japanese replied languidly. The weather today is fine.

Every man of the 200 Cossacks, commanded by Capt. Tourgenieff, who on Tuesday night reconnoitered the Japanese left southwestward, and who, near Sandopu, unexpectedly encountered a good-sized Japanese force with machine guns, was wounded and every horse, except Capt. Tourgenieff's, was hit by the bullets from the Japanese machine guns. Tourgenieff, though mortally wounded, carried off one man behind his saddle, while others managed to creep back to camp. There is the greatest fear on the part of the Russian wounded of falling into the hands of the Japanese, the Russians being convinced that they torture their prisoners.

Armies Worn Out.

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—Col. Gadske, war correspondent of the Tageblatt, telegraphed to his paper today from Mukden, as follows:

"Have been unable to telegraph for two days, owing to the absence of the censor. Both armies are much fatigued. They occupy positions in close contact. Only an occasional shot breaks the stillness. A general Russian attack appeared to have been planned for the night of October 20, but a freshet in the Shahke river prevented it. The roads and fields are drying slowly.

"The Russian losses were frightful. Single regiments have as few as 800 men left. The Viborg regiment, of which Emperor William is honorary colonel, had 20 officers and 300 men killed. The feeling is accordingly grave. No end is visible of the ghastly slaughter.

"No skill in leadership can bring victory in the present struggle, but only the firmer will of the commander and his troops. The wounds are much more dangerous now than formerly. This is due to the use of the old style Japanese rifles, with their flattened, copper covered bullets, and partly to the thicker clothing of the soldiers.

Port Arthur Well Supplied.

"I have private news from Port Arthur that there is abundant ammunition for two months and provisions for a much longer period. Nobody in the fortress thinks it can ever fall. The Chinese report barbarous cruelties on the part of the Japanese. The mere possession of Russian money is dangerous at Niuchwang."

TOKYO, Oct. 21.—The military authorities have released the captured paymaster of the Russian armored cruiser Rurik, who is 70 years old, on account of his age; 34 Russian hospital attendants, and 12 battle-maimed soldiers. They will be sent to the Russian consul at Shanghai. In future it is probable that the Japanese will release prisoners whose wounds are healed and who are incapacitated from further fighting.

TRAIN STRUCK AN AUTO, INJURING THREE PERSONS

H. E. Richards, Wife and Son Have Serious Accident at Philadelphia. Chauffeur Escapes Injury.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21.—Horace Evans Richards, his wife and his son, Horace Evans Richards, Jr., were all severely injured this evening in an automobile accident near their home, Thirty-second street and Abbotsford avenue, Falls of Schuylkill. Charles Golding, Mr. Richards' chauffeur, was taking them to the mayor's house, 8319 North Sixteenth street, and the mayor and Mrs. Weaver were to accompany them to a theater.

Mr. Richards' country seat, "Summit Place," is as its name signifies, at the top of a steep hill, the roading leading down to the Port Richmond branch of the Philadelphia & Reading road. The machine started at a lively clip from "Summit Place," but came to a halt on the railroad tracks. Before the chauffeur could start it again or before the occupants could jump out, a freight train crashed into the automobile, and smashed it to splinters, throwing Mr. and Mrs. Richards, their son and the chauffeur 20 or 30 feet.

Golding was the only one who escaped uninjured. One of Mr. Richards' arms was broken and he was bruised. His wife sustained a severe and perhaps dangerous injury to her back, and their son suffered a compound fracture of the skull.

FUSHIMA COMES FOR SYMPATHY

THE CHANGE IS KEENLY FELT

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau.
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 21.

Behind the approaching visit to America of Prince Fushima, nephew of the emperor of Japan, who won the battle of Nanshan Hill early in the war, the Tokyo foreign office is playing a game of deep diplomacy. The officially announced purpose of his journey is to see the world's fair. Observing diplomats scout the idea that he was recalled from the field of war simply to visit St. Louis at the fag end of the exposition. The greater significance of an attempt to revive waning American sympathy for Japan is attributed to his coming.

At the outbreak of the war strong pro-Japanese sentiment prevailed in the United States and Europe regarded America as at least a moral ally of Japan. The gallant and determined conduct of Russin forces in Manchuria has caused traditional friendship for Russia to reassert itself and public feeling is now estimated as almost perfectly neutral.

Japan has keenly felt the subsidence of this enthusiasm. All indications strongly point to a heroic effort to revive it by bringing Prince Fushima to the United States.

THUGS OF TAMMANY ARE HARD AT WORK

Bulldozing Methods Employed to Prevent Republicans from Registering.

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau.
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, Oct. 21.

Charges and counter charges of intimidation, disturbances in various election districts, with several arrests in consequence; wholesale challenging by Supt. Morgan's men and further discussion over the legal aspects of the situation marked the work of the registration throughout the city today, the last day but one for enrollment of voters. Charles F. Murphy said early in the day that Morgan deputies were everywhere challenging men who had a perfect right to vote.

Otto Rosalsky, Republican leader of the Eighth assembly district, complained at Supt. Morgan's office, 27 William street, that Tammany hall, through "Fiorrie" Sullivan, was posting prize fighters and thugs at all the registration places in the district to intimidate Republicans intending to register and was doing everything to prevent them, short of actual assault.

Commissioner McAdoo was notified by Supt. Morgan that the police would be expected to assist in permitting the registration tomorrow night of persons who are in line at closing time, 10 o'clock. This was in consequence of an opinion from Deputy Attorney General Collins calling atention to supreme court decisions that not only should the registration be permitted of men within the polling place at closing time, but also of those in line, waiting to register, no matter how far the line extended.

Judges Bischoff and Clarke sat in the supreme court today to hear questions raised at polling places. In each instance orders were granted to show cause, returnable next Monday, why the applicants should not be permitted to register. Nearly all were cases in which the question of naturalization had been raised. Should it be decided that these persons have a right to vote, the registration books will have to be reopened for the benefit.

"Where does Senator Scott live? Where does he come from?"

Being told that he was from West Virginia, Murphy replied:

"What does he know about it?"

PREVIOUS RECORD TO BE SMASHED

Penrose Predicts Majority for Roosevelt Exceeding McKinley's in 1896.

CONGRESS SEATS ARE SAFE

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau.
Press Building.
PHILADELPHIA, PA., Oct. 21.

Senator Boies Penrose, Republican state chairman, today after canvassing the reports of the various county chairmen of Pennsylvania, said in his opinion the majority for Roosevelt and Fairbanks November 8 would exceed the record-breaking majority given McKinley in 1896. McKinley's majority in his first presidential campaign was 301,000.

"While there has been at no time any doubt as to what Pennsylvania would do," said Chairman Penrose, "it is especially gratifying to me that the outlook is so promising. The question of success has never been a subject of consideration, but rather the measure of success. That the Republican majority should not fall below that of four years ago has been the wish of myself and those associated with the state organization. Our latest reports, however, indicate the last presidential campaign must not be taken as our standard and that we are able to promise that we will exceed that of eight years ago, when all Pennsylvania records were broken.

"Republican optimism this year is based upon the fact that nowhere in the state exists the slightest friction so far as Republicans are concerned. Every difference has been amicably adjusted and every county organization is working as a unit for the success of the national, congressional, legislative, state and county tickets. This means that a full Republican vote will be polled and that it will be cast for the candidates on the regular ticket.

Congressional Seats Safe.

"We have some really close congressional contests, but I am convinced that we will win all of them. There is every reason to believe that 29 of the 32 congressmen elected in November will be Republicans. This is the representation we now have and there is more likelihood of its being increased than decreased. My advices from the York-Adams district, Schuylkill, Lackawanna and those other districts where the Democrats are concentrating their efforts and wasting their money, are that the Republican nominees will be elected.

"The senatorial and legislative fights are in a very satisfactory condition. The Republican majority in the next senate and house will be of such a decisive margin as to insure its absolute control of legislation and the election of the United States senator without the strife and uncertainty which characterized the sessions of 1899 and 1901. The Republican state ticket will poll for its candidatee an unparalleled majority, one which will measure favorably with the national ticket. The judicial and county fights will be equally satisfactory from the Republican standpoint."

Senator Charles W. Fairbanks, Republican nominee for vice president, passed through Philadelphia this morning. During the past month the senator has traveled more than 20,000 miles, from New England to California and back through the middle west, this being his second turn from the Atlantic seaboard.

Fairbanks Is Appreciative.

Mr. Fairbanks was met at Broad street station by Congressman George A. Castor, appointed by Chairman Penrose as escort to Senator Fairbanks while the latter was passing through Pennsylvania. He will accompany him as far as Wheeling. Congressman Charles N. Fowler of New Jersey also met the vice presidential candidate at the station. Mr. Fowler said:

"President Roosevelt and you, senator, are going to sweep the country. I wish to say that in all my experience in politics I have never known so weak a presidential candidate as Judge Parker."

"Well, that's pretty strong," replied Senator Fairbanks, "but I am glad to find you so confident."

Senator Fairbanks said that his long tour had not affected his health or voice and he really believed he had gained in weight since going on the stump. He spoke very gratefully of the cordial welcome that had been extended him everywhere and said some very nice things about the receptions extended him.

HALL WITHDRAWS FROM GREAT RACE

ANNOUNCES SO LAST NIGHT

Pittsburgh is without a presidential candidate except Dr. Cyclone Kirkland. George W. Hall has withdrawn from the race in favor of Theodore Roosevelt. The announcement of his withdrawal was made by himself at a mass meeting he had called expressly for that purpose in the hall of the Franklin school, last night.

Many Pittsburghers did not know that the Iron City had a candidate for the presidency. But Mr. Hall was the acknowledged leader of the "Young Colored Men's Independent Voting, Protective and Beneficial association." He was duly nominated at a meeting held in the headquarters of the association July 11, and since that time has been engaged in an energetic canvass. He was getting along fine, he said. He spent $192 in canvassing this great country and preparing to present his claims to the voters. He had the thing fairly well rounded up and decided to hold a great convention of the colored race in Central Turner hall, July 14. He had prepared a magnificent program for this occasion and it was to last all day and all night. There was to be good music, singing, speeches, something to eat and something to drink. Any young man who paid $2 on this occasion would be given a badge. This emblem would admit him to an ante-room where all kinds of refreshments would be served him without further charge. The scheme promised well, but at this point, so Mr. Hall says, the management refused him the hall. That ended his dream of being president.

"Ah seen ah wuz up aginst it," he said last night. "They wuz leery uv me. They knew ah had all these here darkies on the hill with me. Ah had 175 uv them giv me theah promise they would vote foh me. It wuz jealousy. But ah see the time ain't ripe yit. Ah wouldn't yeah to say whut ah'll do foh yeahs from now. But the black man is goin' to hev a ticket in the fiel' at that time."

Mr. Hall had prepared a lengthy program for last night. Adolph Edlis was to speak. So was the "Hon." G. A. Jones, known to fame as "Ajax." C. A. Orbin was on the program and George A. Neal was "to enliten the audence with his nolage" according to the typewitten program. These numbers were interspersed with "sweet songs" and "prayer by the Rev.——," the blank being left for any chance "reverend" who happened to show up. None showed up so the prayers were dispensed with. The speakers failed to appear and Mr. Hall sweated himself in filling time with his own remarks. No sweet singers appeared, but the audience of about 40 seemed to enjoy it. Mr. Hall's opening announcement was to this effect:

"Frens and Brethering: We ah heah on this occashun at my ungent request, to heah what ah have to say. Ah have been a candidate foh the noble office of president of dese United States. Ah hev thought the mattah ovah and hev decided the time is not yet preposhus foh a black man to aspiah to the White House. Ah have decided to defeh mah ambition and wish to announce to yo' this evenin' that ah have decided to withdraw in favoh of the black man's best fren' (nodding his head toward a lithograph of President Roosevelt on the wall at his right), Kunnel Theodoh Rosyvelt, and in favoh of this othah gentleman (nodding his head toward another lithograph of Senator Fairbanks on the opposite wall), whose name ah fogits."

The crowd applauded uproariously and C. P. Early, claim agent for the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company, who had just happened in, was called upon for a speech. As he began to speak an old, gray wooled Uncle Tom rose and tottering a step forward asked: "Be yoh frum Figinia, sah?"

"I am a Virginian," replied Mr. Early.

"Ah, yoh General Jube Airley's boy?"

"General Early was my father's cousin," was the reply.

"Dat's all right. Dat's all right. Ah's glad to meet yoh, sah," answered the old fellow as he sat down amid further applause.

The meeting was called for the express purpose of Mr. Hall's withdrawal, but it kept up until after 10 o'clock. Mr. Early and Mr. Hall supplied the oratory and the audience seemed to possess plenty of enthusiasm. Mr. Hall said it was a brilliant meeting and he will probably be a candidate four years hence.

FOUND A MISSING MAN HANGING IN A TREE TOP

John G. Seibert of Coraopolis Committed Suicide Three Months Ago.

After searching the large cities of the United States since July 23, last, for John G. Seibert, a stone contractor of Coraopolis, his body was found yesterday hanging in a treetop by a chalk line at Thorn run, three miles from his home, by a party of hunters. There was little left except bones and dried flesh.

It is evident Seibert had climbed to the top of the tree, and fastening the heavy line about a limb of the tree and the other end about his neck, dropped off. His body was screened by the heavy foliage until recently, when the leaves dropped off, exposing the body. Seibert selected a secluded spot. He went to the interior of a small wood which was not frequented often. When the body was lowered several rain-stained letters were found in the pockets which led to identification.

Siebert was last seen alive in Smithfield street. The detectives and police of this city were notified to make a search for him, but were unable to get any trace of the missing man. His description was sent to all the large cities in the United States, but nothing was ever heard of him. He was 49 years old and had large quarries near Cornopolis. His relatives are at a loss to know the cause of the suicide, unless his mind was unbalanced. He was a man of model habits and his business prospects were good.

Detectives Stiff and Sore Taking Off Extra Weight

Since Director Moore issued orders to the members of his detective bureau that "diamonds and beef must go," the men have been taking daily exercise in the gymasium in the rear of the Central station. The detectives are boxing, wrestling, bag punching, club swinging, and as a result several are carrying black eyes, split lips, sore shoulders and stiff knees.

Detective Charles Aymer has demonstrated that he has no peer in the bureau as a boxer. With the exception of Detective Richard Kelly and Philipp Demmel, most of the other officers bear marks from Aymer's fists. The latter is an all-around athlete and can outrun and box any of his fellow officers. Detectives Kelly and Demmel are of the opinion they are too old to indulge in the exercise with the younger officers, but insist they can give them fatherly advice about avoiding the temptations they may have to encounter. The director is pleased the officers are caring for their physical condition, as most of them, in his mind, were "too fat."

Director Moore is adverse to the display of diamonds by his detectives, but since he issued his edict against gems, he has learned that most of the jewelry displayed by the front office men was "phoney;" so he has withdrawn his objections.

ONE ACCIDENT CAUSES ANOTHER

WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH

As E. B. Conway was knocked off a tower of the Sixth street bridge yesterday the accident was witnessed by Thomas Jones, who was working on a scaffold on the fifth floor of Spear & Co.'s building, 908 Fifth avenue. Jones became excited at Conway's accident and fell to the pavement. Both men were taken to the Allegheny general hospital. Conway died at the infirmary and Jones died in the ambulance.

Conway was employed as a painter by Gray Brothers, 549 Seventh avenue. He came in contact with a live wire while at work and was knocked from his scaffold to the floor, fracturing his skull.

Jones was employed by the Federal Stone Cleaning Company. He was in plain view of Conway, who was at work on the Allegheny side of the Sixth street bridge. When Conway fell he called a fellow workman's attention to it. Jones became excited at the sight of Conway whirling through the air and lost his balance and fell to the pavement.

An ambulance was summoned from the Allegheny general hospital to get the men. Jones died while on the way to the hospital and Conway died later. Conway lived in Wilkinsburg. Jones lived at 4115 Foster street. Jones' wife and boy are at the West Penn hospital with typhoid fever and were to be removed to their home today. Jones visited them at noon yesterday and was killed four hours later.

While Miss Frances Lemon of Springdale was talking with a huckster in front of her home yesterday her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Lemon, was fatally burned. When the daughter returned to the house after a few minutes' absence she found her mother in flames. It is supposed that a spark from her pipe ignited her clothing.

Miss Lemon extinguished the flames and hurriedly summoned Dr. B. S. Johnson, but the woman was beyond aid, and died at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Mrs. Lemon was the oldest resident of Springdale township, being 93 years of age. She was born near the place where she died and had spent nearly her entire life in the township. Her husband died several years ago. She is survived by several children and grandchildren.

BRIBERY BEING INVESTIGATED

Inquiry Independent of Filtration and Boulevard Suits Has Been Started.

INCLUDES ALL LEGISLATION

An investigation of bribery in the Pittsburgh councils has been started independent of the suits of Controller Larkin in the filtration case and of the Voters' Civic league in the Grant boulevard case. This investigation covers all important legislation enacted by councils in the past year, including filtration, the Grant boulevard and other Verner franchises and the electric light and traction ordinances now pending in councils. Reports of bribery and statements of attempted bribery are being investigated and may get into court.

W. S. Guffey added zest to the investigation yesterday by announcing that he would give $1,000 to a fund to investigate bribery and punish bribe-givers. He asks for contributions of any amount from others to this fund. Mr. Guffey said:

I will give $1,000 to a fund to cover the expenses of investigating these charges of bribery and of prosecutions if the evidence can be found. I had at first thought of asking 19 other men to contribute $1,000 each also to enable us to have a fund of $20,000, but I have decided many men might want to contribute who would tell they could not afford to give so much, and for that reason I will place no limit on the amount that will be gladly received from any person. I mean business in this. The fund will be used for the arrest and conviction of any person found to be guilty of bribery or accepting a bribe. I will myself give the $1,000 for the arrest and conviction of any person if no other money is forthcoming.

President Wightman stated several weeks ago, while the Hall light and the Pittsburgh Railways Company's ordinances were pending, that he had been offered money to "go along" with the "new combine" in select council. President Wightman did not give the name of the person who made the offer, but he will soon have a chance to tell.

In the boulevard case a large number of councilmen will be summoned to court to give testimony. Among these will probably be Thomas M. Brown, former councilman from the Twentieth ward, whose departure from the common council chamber when the Verner traction ordinances were pending gave the majority enough votes to suspend the rules and pass the bills finally. Mr. Brown said yesterday that if called upon he would testify and tell all he knows about the affair.

Anent the Early Buying of Furs

Early in the summer season the fur traders and trappers send their catch of winter pelts to the great fur centers of the world, i. e., London and Leipsic and Nijni Novgorod, whence goes the American manufacturer to buy his skins for the following season. It is at these marts that prices for the whole world are established, advancing or decreasing according to the laws of supply and demand. Naturally we obtain and make up the best skins first.

As the season progresses, and it becomes necessary to replenish stocks, we must fall back on subsequent purchases, which are never as good as the first, no matter what the price may be.

The furs that we offer now are all made from the best Winter-catch skins, and the prices are lower than they will be three weeks or a month hence.

The Right Kind of Shoes for Boys.

Every boy likes stout, mannish looking shoes, and abhors the sort of footwear of which he must always be careful. He doesn't like to be bothered with such nonsense as "taking care of his shoes."

The average parent, however, is fully aware of this fact, and demand shoes for their boys that don't have to be taken care of. The parent likes a boy's shoes to be stylish also, and, if they can buy such shoes—that is, strong, yet stylish shoes—for less money one place than another, you may be sure they'll do so. Which accounts for our large trade in boys' shoes.

Boys' box calf Shoes, new swing last, sizes 2½ to 5½, $3.00.

Boys' patent leather Dress Shoes, mannish last, sizes 2½ to 5½, $3.00.

Boys' box calf Shoes, stout soles, for dress and general wear, $2.00 and $2.50.

Small boys' Shoes, calf, with stout soles, and lined with leather throughout, sizes 10 to 13½, $2.50.

We claim to have the most complete line of misses' and children's shoes in Greater Pittsburg. We spend a great deal of time and thought to keep our shoe stock at this point of superiority, and find it a pleasure to be able to please the fancy of every little boy and girl, as well as their parents, who comes into our shoe shop.

The Rose Knife Grinder Demonstration

is still going on in the Housefurnishing Department, Basement. To quote from one of our contemporaries, dull knives made sharp tempers. Take the edge off the temper and put it on the knives with a few passes through the slots in the Rose Automatic Knife Grinder.

It can be kept on the table or any handy place in the kitchen, and anyone, even a child, can use it.

Costs only 50c.

Block Lights Reduced in Price.

This celebrated system of lighting residences and business places has now been before the people of Pittsburg for over a year. It has met with extraordinary success, not only here, but everywhere, on account of its quality of diminishing gas bills and at the same time improving the lighting. In fact, sales have been so large that the manufacturers find they can afford to reduce the prices and still make a fair profit. Therefore this reduction. The reduced prices are as follows—

Mantles, 25c, 35c, 50c each.

Burners, 75c each.

Chimneys, 15c, 20c, 25c, 35c for plain or opal glass.

Arc Lamps, outside, $35.00 for a single lamp; $30.00 if two or more are purchased.

What is criticised as a possible abandonment of the Allegheny graft cases is simply a demonstration of the difficulties in the way of obtaining proof of what it is well known occurs. The grafters guard their secrets well and they have means for the intimidation of witnesses. This does not mean that the machinery of the law is altogether powerless. Rather it demands the application of the law to the less offenders who are withholding the needed information. A vigorous prosecution of the lawbreakers who are among the principal contributors to the graft system will have a tendency to break up the conspiracy and to take from the grafters a fruitful field which has been overcultivated.

Former President Cleveland delivered his promised speech last night, but what he had to say will not figure among the important utterances of the campaign. It was written in his best pontifical style, and is a string of nebulous platitudes in which one must grope about for the sense. The main thing is that he is for the Democratic ticket, a fact which he avows in this characteristic sentence: "You will not, I know, accuse me of self-conceit if I assume that I am with those tonight who demand of me no explanation or apology for the manner in which I have served either my party or the business interests of my country, and who will neither discredit nor distrust me when I avow my intense anxiety for the success in the pending political campaign of the principles and nominees of the reunited Democracy." Mr. Cleveland is quite safe in saying that, however long it takes him to say it. Nobody whose opinion is worth having will deny that Mr. Cleveland served his country well in standing up against the free silver mania of his party, and no one will begrudge him the satisfaction he now feels that his party has come around to his position by nominating a gold-standard candidate. But neither that fact nor Mr. Cleveland's gratification over it affords a good reason why the administration of affairs should be turned over to the Democratic party.

The opposing armies in Manchuria are still resting from their late struggle, glaring at each other across the Shakhe river like exhausted wild beasts. The arrival of the Eighth Russian army corps at Mukden is announced, so that Gen. Kuropatkin may soon be able to resume the attack. Meanwhile some facts are arriving which show how terrible was the carnage in the recent fighting. Col. Gaedke, the war correspondent of the Berlin Tageblatt, who is with the Russians, reports that their losses were frightful. The Viborg regiment, of which the Emperor William is honorary colonel, had 20 officers and 300 men killed. A fact which gives tremendous evidence of the precision of the Japanese fire is that every man was wounded in a force of 200 Cossacks which encountered a Japanese force while reconnoitering and in addition every horse save one was also hit, although no one was actually killed on the field. Excepting the Japanese themselves there is probably no troops in the world who would face such carnage with the stolid composure of the Russians, but with such a ghastly prospect of wholesale slaughter and no end to it in sight it is reported that the feeling in the Russian camp has become very grave. What makes the situation the more depressing is that at the outset the war was regarded upon the Russian side as being largely a joke and the military dandies welcomed it as affording an easy opportunity to earn cheap glory. They know better now and the disillusion is painful.

Judge Parker selected the increase of national expenditures as the subject of his third speech during the campaign. The subject is one which might well engage the thoughtful consideration of statesmen, but unfortunately Judge Parker would reduce provision for national defense in order to save money. There could be no better way selected to waste money and to insure greatly increased expenditure in the end. It would be just as sensible to figure out what a great saving might be made in municipal expenditure by cutting down the police force. The place to save money is in the civil departments, and the way to do it is to curtail congressional powers of extravagance, particularly the senatorial usurpations which permit any member of the upper house to load upon the appropriation bills pretty nearly anything he desires. But if Judge Parker took up that matter he would run foul of distinguished members of his own party, as, for instance, Senator Tillman, who once forced an appropriation for a claim denounced as fraudulent by threatening to hold up all the appropriation bills unless congress submitted to his blackmail. We have yet to see a practical suggestion from Judge Parker as to the remedy of evils of which he complains, or, indeed, any criticism of existing methods which rises above the rank of ordinary partisan twaddle. He may have been a good judge, but he would be a disastrous misfit in the presidential office.

The Deal Strikes a Snag.

It is greatly to the credit of common council that the confident predictions of the administration managers that the franchise deal would go through at yesterday's session were not fulfilled. On the contrary, some representation of public interests made its mark upon the proceedings and prevented the passage of the traction franchise ordinances. The Republican councilmen present showed loyalty to the party platform with the exception of W. R. Bailey of the Seventeenth ward, who played the traitor when the question of public compensation was raised on the Duquesne Light ordinance, and Joel Gibbon of the Twenty-third ward, who deserted when the same question was up as regards the traction franchises. In both cases connections of personal interest are alleged in explanation of their action.

In behalf of the Duquesne Light ordinance, President J. G. Spiane of the Pittsburgh and Allegheny Telephone Company assured the council that the new concern meant business, as it intended to use the conduits and poles of the telephone company. He declared that it would reduce rates from 25 to 33 per cent and would furnish arc lights for $75 a year, but he put up the old plea that it could not do this if required to pay anything for the franchise. The fallacy of this plea was exposed at once by the pertinent query, Why not reduce rates only 20 per cent and thus be able to pay 5 per cent to the city for the franchise? But this point was avoided. To the question whether the company would agree to a stipulation that arc lights should be furnished at $75, he finally said that he had no personal objection, but notwithstanding that admission the proposition was voted down. The truth of the matter is that companies who pay for their franchises invariably give service for less than companies who do not, as in the latter case the value of the franchise leads to over-capitalization. In Canadian cities where limited franchises and public compensation is the rule, rates both for telephone service and electric lighting are much lower than in this country, but there the capitalization of public utility corporations is much more modest. The light company franchise was finally passed after all amendments in the public interest had been voted down, but enough votes could not be raked up by the lobby to suspend the rules and pass it finally.

In the struggle over the traction ordinances the Republicans were reinforced by some members of the Citizens party. Upon the motion of Mr. Roenigk the ordinance for the Morningside line was sent to a special committee of five by a vote of 20 to 19. Upon motion of Mr. Brand, the ordinance for the Federal and Pleasant Valley line was actually amended so as to compel a payment of $25,000 a year to the city for the franchise. This innovation in councilmanic proceedings was carried by a vote of 23 to 20. After this stunning event the remaining traction ordinance was not even taken up, and so all three ordinances still remain upon second reading and open to amendment. The proposed compensation is a very moderate one, and if the officers of the Philadelphia Company have due regard for the signs of the times they will be glad to concede it. it is a pitifully small return for the franchises they enjoy and is much less than ought to be required, but it is at least a promising beginning.

Common council is called to meet again Monday next, and the administration adherents claim that all the amendments will be stricken out and that the ordinances will be passed without any compensation to the public for the immensely valuable privileges demanded. This is a challenge given by the corporations as to whether they or the public control councils. Between now and Monday the people should let their councilmen hear from them in every ward. The loot system has sustained a check. A vigorous effort of public opinion may make a break in it yet.

For Proof of Corruption.

An offer is made by W. S. Guffey of $1,000 for proof of bribery or corrupt solicitation in connection with the enactment of the boulevard street railway ordinance. This is an indication of the feeling that has been aroused by recent proceedings in councils and the charges concerning them. There are many other citizens who would add to the fund if there was a fair prospect of prosecution and conviction of boodlers.

Meantime every opportunity should be given Controller Larkin and the Voters' Civic league to substantiate their charges. The nature of the cases in which the allegations were made does not necessarily imply such opportunity, for they are determinable by judicial consideration without investigation in detail. But it is possible to give the proceedings wide enough scope for the introduction of testimony on this point and the public would like to see that course taken. It is high time that judicial inquiry should determine what foundation exists for charges of this character, and Mr. Guffey's offer is an inducement to others to tell if they have any knowledge of corrupt practices.

The Party of Disturbance.

The Philippine policy of the Democratic party excites alarm in all the churches laboring in that country, as they are keenly aware of the mischief it would do if actually put into effect. Hence high church officials who have personal knowledge of conditions there have felt impelled to speak frankly on the subject. Bishop Brent of the Protestant Episcopal church, Bishop Warren of the Methodist Episcopal church and Archbishop Harty of the Roman Catholic church agree in asserting the necessity of American control and in commending our present policy. Archbishop Harty frankly declares that he favors the re-election of President Roosevelt and the continuation of the rule of Gov. Wright in the islands. The archbishop recently returned to Manila after a tour through the remote provinces in his jurisdiction, and he found everywhere that order was being restored and that there was a general feeling of satisfaction prevailing over the greater security to person and property. In his opinion Americans cannot shirk or abandon the work of educating the Filipino in the duties of citizenship. Democratic efforts to undo what has been done and thus throw the country into disorder, antagonize all religious interests there and the opposition thus aroused is potent although unobtrusive.

The Democratic policy also excites the hostility of the best elements among the Filipinos themselves. Dr. Regidor, a Filipino jurist of international reputation, who was a leader in revolt against Spanish misrule, has an article in the current number of the Independent in which he says that while he expects an increasing measure of self-government under American sovereignty he does not think that full independence "will ever fall to the lot of the Philippines." He declares that the very attempt would be disastrous since, "left to struggle single handed against the imperialist ambitions of the world's monarchies," the islands would ultimately pass into the possession of some of the great powers. Even the aunties see this and they propose that the United States in addition to making the Philippines an independent nation shall assure them in their independence. In other words, we shall continue to bear the responsibility of actions which we have renounced the right to control. Such is the maze of absurdity into which the nation would be entangled by a policy whose real motive is not concern about the Philippines, but a craven wish to trail the flag to avoid the trouble of keeping it afloat where it has been planted through the fortunes of war.

The Business Situation.

There has been additional growth this week of the spirit of optimism, so essential to business life, and it has been accompanied by actual improvement in trade. One thing which reflects this improvement is increased railroad gross earnings, which are reported from all over the country. In the west and south this is largely accounted for by the movement of grain and cotton, which continues very active. In the east industrial expansion and the forwarding of merchandise to country consumers contributes to the volume of railroad traffic. The better business of the railroads is begetting other business, for as the outlook brightens the railroads feel warranted in placing orders for additional rolling stock. Thus the circle of activity is constantly widening.

In the iron market prices are advancing and conditions are healthier than at any time in more than a year. It was at this season in 1903 that the general public was forced to admit that reaction in trade was a fact. This reaction became more acute than in former years, first because of the previous over-expansion in financial and industrial affairs, and in the second place because the forces of industry were better organized than ever before. The process of curtailment was instantly applied instead of extending over a series of years, and the fact that a presidential election was impending influenced people to defer new projects.

In the stock market a readjustment of values to new conditions is rapidly accomplished, but in commercial and industrial affairs this operation has in the past required more time. However, with the consolidation and organization of industry the machinery has been provided for more quickly meeting changed conditions. Former periods of depression in trade were prolonged by the absence of concerted action. Manufacturers of limited resources would continue operations in the hope of offsetting the effects of falling prices by increased output. The result was over-production, and this over-production had to be absorbed before a genuine recovery took place. The upward and downward "swing" of trade was therefore slower. Recalling this experience of the old days has made some people skeptical of the permanency of the present sudden change from the depression of last spring, but such persons fail to take note of the fact that despite the largely increased capacity of plants there was no huge accumulation of stocks as in former years, and hence there is no over-production to stand in the way of a revival of trade.

No greater contrast could be presented than between the general business situation today and that of one year ago. It was in the corresponding week of 1903 that a wave of trouble swept over the financial situation. Panic prices prevailed in the stock market and banks and trust companies in several important cities closed their doors. Distrust was in the air and it was felt that the crucial test was about to be applied to the financial and industrial experiments of the two preceding years. This week the stock market was more buoyant and active than at any time since 1902. Prices advanced to the highest level for more than a year and the surface of the money market was without a ripple. All this happening right on the eve of the presidential election is certainly a remarkable exhibition of confidence in the future.

It is reported from Chefoo that 50,000 Japanese have been killed before Port Arthur. The correspondent probably means 50,000 total casualties, or about 10,000 killed. There is an important difference.

As former chief judge of the court of appeals Mr. Parker might make an interesting address on how the common law did not prove effective in regulating the New Jersey corporations in New York.

Autumn arbor day was observed appropriately and has made an addition to the forestry knowledge of the coming generation. Forestry will be better appreciated by and by.

German soldiers are not allowed to land at British ports in South Africa. The law of neutrals is as good for the black man as for the white when the occasion suits.

Russia announces its ability to pour men and supplies into Manchuria faster than the Japanese. The world will soon be able to judge the truth of this boast.

An interesting race will be run between the New York and Mare Island navy yards in turning out the finest military transports afloat.

No reduction in rail prices is the ultimatum. If wrecking railroads want to replace rotten rails they must pay the rate.

There is a lively demand for orchestra seats that indicates the most successful season in the history of the organization.

Another Democratic lie nailed. Chairman Cortelyou had no communication with the Americus Republican club.

Talked of in Gotham

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—"Big Six," the famous old hand fire engine which will be recalled by the old-time New Yorkers as having been used for nearly half a century at some of the worst conflagrations in the history of the city by "Bill Tweed's fire company," so-called because its foreman was the late William M. Tweed, has been disposed of by the government authorities at Fort Totten, and unless intercession is made the famous old relic will soon be consigned to the junk heap. The old engine was brought to Fort Totten in 1867, when the government purchased it from the city of New York. In the early days of the post "Big Six" was used to advantage by the artillerymen in extinguishing small fires which broke out occasionally in the old wooden barracks. The palmy days of "Big Six" ended about 10 years ago, when the old engine was consigned to the rubbish heap as having outlived its usefulness. It was rescued, however, last week, by Maj. Murray, commandant at Fort Totten. The engine was offered as an heirloom to Fire Chief Croker, but the latter declined it, saying he lacked a suitable place to store the engine. The Veteran Volunteer Firemen's association, at Astoria, Long Island, have made numerous requests for the old engine and promised, if permitted, to restore as nearly as possible to its former likeness, and then set it up in their clubrooms. Its extreme age has affected "Big Six" but little, and the likeness of the late William M. Tweed is still plainly visible on the front of the engine. On the back is an unmistakable picture of the Tammany Tiger, the symbol of the famous "Tweed ring." Built in 1849, by James Smith of New York, the engine saw service at many conflagrations. It was patterned after the style of an engine then used in Philadelphia by the American hose company, which succeeded the "Old Black Joe" company in 1833. The "Old Black Joe" company was disbanded because of the fighting proclivities of some of its members. On the occasion of a political procession in honor of James K. Polk, the company went on a rampage and smashed all the fire plugs in the business portion of the city.

Another Chance to Clean Up.

Plans have been filed with Building Superintendent Hopper for the big public bath to be erected by the city on the block fronting on the east side of Avenue A, from Twenty-third to Twenty-fourth streets. It is to be a one-story edifice, surrounded by garden plots and having a frontage of 163 feet and a depth of 141 feet. The facade will be of ornamental brick with trimmings of limestone, granite and terra cotta, having a decorative cornice surmounted by a flagstaff. There will be two main entrances arched and decorated with ornamental glass, with broad staircases of granite. The interior will have an arched roof. There is to be a large natatorium for men and a smaller one for women, and separate, commodious shower rooms for men and women. The cellar will be fitted with an elaborate heating plant. The building will be New York's handsomest free bath and the cost is estimated at $250,000.

Hires Man to Make Love.

Mrs. Fannie Herman, in support of an application for an allowance of alimony made to Judge Amend in proceedings brought by her husband, Jacob Herman, for the dissolution of their marriage, submitted affidavits to show she believed her husband had schemed to get rid of her. He is a violin maker and music teacher. They were married in 1895. Mrs. Herman submitted an affidavit of Jacob Grosfeld, who declares a proposal was made to him by a friend of Mr. Herman to make love to Mrs. Herman for an agreed compensation, and that this was followed by a suggestion that Mr. Herman would give $200 to his wife for a decree, which she indignantly rejected.

No Rice for This Bridal Couple.

By means of a dumb waiter a well-known Bayonne bridal couple at midnight on Wednesday escaped the usual bombardment of rice, old shoes and slippers. The couple were Miss Jennie A. Fox and Robert Von Wallmenich. Toward midnight they prepared to leave on their honeymoon to St. Louis, and went upstairs to don their traveling clothes. Then the guests got the rice, slippers and shoes and waited. First the bridegroom crouched into the waiter and was slowly lowered to the cellar. When the bottom of the waiter bumped against the cement floor he signalled. The bride was then tucked away in the waiter and lowered to the waiting bridegroom. Both sped to the yard, and across the lawn to a coach. Miss Emily Williams, a school teacher, when she heard of the escape, said:

"It strikes me that we were the dumb waiters."

No Danger of Collision in Subway.

On his trip through the sub-way for the purpose of observing what provision had been made for the safety of the public, Police Commissioner McAdoo and his inspectors, who were accompanied by Frank Hedley, general manager, had an interesting experience with the "automatic train stop." This is a device for preventing a train from entering a block while another train is there. The train on which Mr. McAdoo and the others were riding immediately upon striking the trigger of the automatic catch was rolled over upon another track by means of an automatic switch and immediately came to a stop, the current having been automatically cut off and the emergency brakes applied. The automatic stop mechanism is one of a number of safety devices of great interest to engineers. It is that form of track stop invented by F. E. Kinsman, who is known in the scientific world as the inventor of a multiple telephone switchboard and of a method of using arc lights on an incandescent circuit.

Already Preparing for "Parsifal."

Among the earliest and most notable events of the now fast approaching season of grand opera at the Metropolitan opera house will be the first of the new series of performances of "Parsifal." It will take place on the afternoon and evening of Thursday, November 24 (Thanksgiving day). Preparations for the fitting revival have already begun. The orchestra will be again under the direction of Alfred Hertz. Burgstaller will, as last year, be the Parsifal. Van Rooy will repeat his remarkable interpretation of Amfortas, Robert Blase will give due significance to the impressive part of Gurnemanz, Otto Goritz will be the Klingsen and Marcel Journet will be heard as Titurel. Special interest will of course be lent to the occasion by the assumption for the first time of the part of Kundry by Mme. Lillian Nordica, who has been studying it diligently here and abroad.

The Candidates

In McClure's for November Senator Henry Cabot Lodge gives a glimpse of President Roosevelt as he sees him. He says of him:

"No man has lived the life of his time so amply as he; no one has shown humanity in so many phases, no one has wider sympathies or so many interests. It would be worse than idle for anyone, no matter how intimate his knowledge, to fancy that he could depict a character so many sided, so tried and tested in such multiform experiences, within the space allowed me here. His daily life does not differ in any respect from that of any other very busy man of great energy, who finds rest and relief not only in active out-of-door life, but in a wide and constant reading of books—a habit, by the way, quite as characteristic as any others, but of which the newspaper critics and humorists tell us little.

"Theodore Roosevelt apprehends very quickly. When he has thought a subject out thoroughly and knows what he means to do, he acts promptly. When, after full consideration, he has made up his mind as to what is right he is unbending; but no man has been in the White House for many years who is so ready to take advice, who has made up his mind more slowly, more deliberately, and after more consultation than Theodore Roosevelt.

"Every nation, or rather every historic race, has certain attributes in addition to the great and more obvious virtues which it believes to be peculiarly its own, and in which it takes an especial pride. We of the United States like to think of the typical American as a brave and an honest man, very human, with no vain pretense to infallibility. We would have him simple in his home life, democratic in his ways, with the highest education that the world can give, kind to the weak, tender and loyal and true, never quarrelsome but never afraid to fight, with a strong, sane sense of humor, and with a strain of adventure in the blood which we shall never cease to love until those ancestors of ours who conquered a continent have drifted a good deal further into the past than is the case today. These are the qualities which all men admire and respect and which thus combined we like to think peculiarly American. As I enumerate them I describe Theodore Roosevelt."

Former President Grover Cleveland in McClure's for November gives his personal estimate of Judge Parker as a candidate for president. He says of him in part:

"We sometimes find features of character so prominently visible in a man's mental organization that, like the features of his countenance, they need no proof of their existence. This is pre-eminently true of Judge Parker's intent deliberation in reaching conclusions and his inherent judicial conservatism. These qualities of his mind are so distinctly apparent that they are at once seen and known by all who gain the slightest knowledge of the man. This should make it thoroughly understood that those who love presidential pyrotechnics must look elsewhere.

"I have known Alton B. Parker for more than 20 years. He impressed me on our first acquaintance as a sincere, honest and able man; and this impression has, with time and observation, grown to clear and undoubting conviction. I am sure that I venture nothing in making the positive assertion that the guiding trait of his character is his constant and unyielding devotion to duty.

"Judge Parker's experience in judicial investigation, added to his natural aptitude in the same direction, ought to satisfy the most cautious and exacting of his abundant ability to discover in the light of constitutional requirements, and in the atmosphere of enlightened but conservative Americanism, the manner in which a president should best serve his countrymen.

"I am persuaded that the American people will make no mistake if they place implicit reliance in Alton B. Parker's devotion to duty, in his clear perception of the path of duty, in his steadfast persistency against all temptation to leave the way where duty leads, and in his safe and conservative conceptions of presidential responsibilities."

PENNSYLVANIA FARM HOMES.

Pennsylvania has impressed the 11,700,000 visitors to the world's fair—whatever portion of them have taken the time to walk into her agricultural section—that the most convincing evidence of agricultural prosperity in Pennsylvania is the hundreds of widespreading farmhouses and barns shown in myriads of pictures there. Pennsylvania has the largest farmhouses in the world. There is such a careless generosity of "scope," as people who plan world's fairs say. A Pennsylvania farmer builds as if he never meant to build any additions. There won't be any future "lean-to's" on a Pennsylvania farmhouse, because there doesn't need to be; the entire possible site is covered in the beginning. Upon its front, with its rows of green-shuttered windows, this home of the rural Pennsylvanian looks like what they proudly call the "hotel" in most western towns. It is meant to shelter the farmer's family, his hired hands and extra harvest help; and on Thanksgiving and Christmas and at weddings, which are numerous, at least 50 to 100 people; it is built for such emergencies.

Not like the western farmhouse "spare chamber," too often icy in winter and musty in summer; it has half a dozen spare chambers. There are, or used to be, feather beds in them, but it is to be hoped that a great light has at last broken in upon good, old-fashioned Pennsylvania and that these feather beds are now represented by a vast progeny of plump and fluffy pillows, and that something more modern and less overwhelmingly luxurious has taken their place. In the Pennsylvania bed chamber, if you rise betimes, and betimes in the country always means at 4 a. m., "Pennsylvania time," you do not knock your shins on the trunk or bark your toes on the rocker of the rocking chair or fall over the washstand because of the generally confined area of the apartment; there is always a majesty of room; you may stride three or four Marcus Aurelian strides in any direction before reaching the wall. These great rooms are built for air and locomotion. In a sense they express the Pennsylvania character—broad, liberal, seeking comfort, without splurge; nothing skimped, no niggardliness anywhere, abundance everywhere, a serene, uncramped way of living, healthy and contented and always conservative—even to the feather beds.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Great Good Sense.

The Pittsburgh Automobile club is acting with great good sense in offering prizes for the conviction of those who speed their autos beyond the legal limits. Until the owners of machines realize that they are the greatest sufferers from the insane actions of those who endanger life and limb to make record time, there will be a popular hatred and distrust of all auto drivers. When the men who own the machines secure a proper regard for the law on the part of the autoists there will be little or no friction between the chauffeurs and citizens who now denounce them.—Franklin News.

ROUND ABOUT THE STATE.

Ex-Sheriff M. L. Bechtel returned from the woods Saturday evening with four gray squirrels, as he says, as large as an elephant's ear. Owing to the fact that the sheriff is minus his right arm, this may be considered a good day's work.—Martinsburg Cor. Altoona Tribune.

An old-fashioned barn raising that was attended by more than 100 neighbors and friends took place at the Culbertson farm, in Oakland township, on Tuesday afternoon. The heavy timbers and frame of the barn was raised in short meter and a splendid dinner was the reward of the labors of the volunteers. There was a time that all of the big barns of this section were raised in this manner, and the event of yesterday was as interesting to the old-timers as it was to the younger generation to whom it was a decided novelty.—Oil City Derrick.

Peter Phillips, of this place, who has a small farm over at the old South Side brewery, does not pretend to be a professional horticulturist but he thinks he has raised some of the finest apples this year that have grown anywhere. They are of the variety known as the "Northern Star," and are very large and beautiful, averaging about a pound in weight. The tree that bore them has been standing around idly for the past 14 years, not even taking the trouble to blossom. But this year it is full, and has demonstrated that it amounts to something.—Punxsutawney Spirit.

Steel Men's Program

From the Iron and Steel Associated Bulletin.

The members of the Iron and Steel Institute who will attend the American meeting this year, with the ladies who will accompany them, will number not less than 250. They will arrive in New York in time for the first business meeting, which is scheduled to take place at Sherry's on Monday evening, October 24, at 8:30. On Tuesday there will be an excursion by boat to West Point and return. On Wednesday there will be two sessions for business, one in the morning and one in the afternoon, and on that evening the members of the institute will tender a dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel to the members of the New York reception committee. The New York headquarters of the institute will be at the new Hotel Astor, which is said to be the finest hotel in the world. At the first meeting of the institute, on Monday evening, October 24, addresses of welcome will be delivered, and on behalf of the council of the Institute Sir James Kitson, past president, will present to the president, Andrew Carnegie, the Bessemer gold medal "in recognition of his great services to the iron and steel trades of the world."

Mr. Brough, the secretary of the institute, has issued a complete itinerary for the whole of the visit of the institute, and from this we select the following details: The party will leave New York on October 27, at 8:35 a. m., for Philadelphia, arriving at 11:20. Members wishing to visit the Bethlehem steel plant will start about 8:45 and reach Philadelphia later in the afternoon. Special trains will leave Philadelphia on Saturday, October 29, at 9:50 a. m., arriving at Washington at 1 p. m. A reception will be held in the evening by the president of the United States. Sunday will be spent in Washington.

From Washington the party will go to Pittsburgh by way of Cumberland on October 31. Lunch will be served at Cumberland. The party will reach Pittsburgh for evening dinner. November 1 and 2 will be spent in Pittsburgh, where excursions to iron and steel works will be arranged. The party will leave Pittsburgh on November 3 at 2 p. m., for Cleveland, arriving at Cleveland at 5:30 p. m. It will leave Cleveland on November 5 at 4 p. m., and arrive at Buffalo at 8:20 p. m., spending the night and Sunday there, and on Monday, November 7, visiting Niagara Falls. From Buffalo the party will return to New York by way of Syracuse, Schenectady and Albany, taking in the industrial attractions of each city. While at Pittsburgh it is expected that a limited number will go to the St. Louis fair, arriving there at 1:42 p. m., on November 4.

The members of the Buffalo party are expected to be back in New York in time to take a steamer for England on Wednesday, November 9.

In Philadelphia the distinguished visitors will be received and entertained by a reception committee, composed of both ladies and gentlemen, of which Mr. Joseph Wharton is chairman and John Birkinbine secretary. The program as arranged, embraces the following features:

Upon reaching Philadelphia at noon on the 27th the party will be taken for a drive through Fairmount park and up the Wissahickon to the Germantown Cricket club grounds at Manheim, where it is expected that most of those who have taken the Bethlehem trip will join the party. At Manheim the visitors will be generously entertained. On the morning of the 28th they will be received by Mayor Weaver, and then separate for a series of optional excursions, one of which is to be by boat to the shipyards in Philadelphia and Camden, the League Island navy yard, etc., another to West Philadelphia, visiting the Philadelphia museum, the Archaeological museum, the University of Pennsylvania and the Drexel institute, and another to various industrial enterprises in the city. In the evening an elaborate reception will be tendered the visitors at the Academy of Fine Arts, thus bringing to a close their short stay in Philadelphia.

A Railroader Defends His Case.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

In today's issue of The Gazette I noticed an editorial on railroad accidents and also note that the interstate commerce commission explains the large number by saying that the train crews are disobeying orders, especially the engineers and conductors. If you will look over the roads and see the changes that have been made by the companies you will be surprised. We are now compelled to handle larger cars and twice as many of them as heretofore. In addition, we have less help, as one man has been taken off each crew and with the long trains it is impossible to give signals in case the train breaks in two parts. How can one man and a conductor pass signals over from 70 to 80 cars on a curve or in a fog? Or, if we stop and the flagman goes out to flag in the fog and does not hear the whistle and we start without him before the conductor can reach the rear end we make another stop with nobody to flag. The result is that a train following hits us before we know it. Whose fault is it? Surely not the trainmen's, but rather the company's in not giving us enough help. AN OLD ENGINEER.

Some Prize Apples.

A. Gilbert's collection of prize apples is growing rapidly and he has now about 20 samples of the fruit that show that Venango county is one of the best for raising fruit in the country. Oakland township leads all competition up to now. A. Wygant, of that section, offering an apple that weighed an even 16 ounces, and one that weighed only a half ounce less. "Jack" English, of Hill City, Cranberry township, is a close second with an apple that weighs 15½ ounces. There are five apples in the collection that weigh 15 ounces each.—Oil City Derrick.

Where They Have Fenders.

A schoolboy whose name was not learned was picked up by a fender on Motorman Watson's car Monday afternoon, near the corner of Third street and Carolina avenue. The accident happened just as the pupils had been dismissed from the high-school building. The boy attempted to cross in front of the car, which he did not see approaching. The fender did its work nicely, and the youth escaped with nothing more serious than a bad fright.—East Liverpool Tribune.

It Might Be Improved.

The Pittsburgh Automobile club, comprising the leading men in that city, have offered a reward of $250 for the conviction of any man or woman charged with "speeding" beyond the legal limit. That is a move in the right direction. But it would improve things if the convicted man or woman, after proof of drunkenness when "speeding," is made to serve out a term of imprisonment in addition to double the fine.—Buffalo Commercial.

SUSPECTS FOUGHT WITH DETECTIVES

Three Killed and Three Wounded as the Result of a Desperate Battle.

EVERY BULLET TOOK EFFECT

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 21.—In a desperate battle today between five detectives and three suspects whom they were endeavoring to arrest, two detectives were killed and one seriously injured and one of the suspects was killed and two others badly wounded.

THE DEAD.

JOHN J. SHEA, detective.
THOMAS DWYER, Detective.

THE WOUNDED.

ALBERT ROSE, suspect.
JAMES M'CLUSKY, detective; shot through the stomach; critical.
C. C. BLAIR, fugitive; shot four times through the head.
HARRY H. VAUGHN, fugitive; badly beaten about the head by detectives when he sought to aid his friends in the battle.

The fight occurred in the front room of a house on Pine street, and the men whom the detectives sought to arrest are suspected of being implicated in a train robbery at Centralia, Ill., a few weeks ago. The house had been under police surveillance for several days, but today was the first time that any of the suspects were seen to enter or leave.

Blair made a statement that he, Rose and others had been seated in the room when the door was opened and the detectives entered. Blair, noting the fact that Detective Shea had his revolver drawn pulled his own gun and emptied it into the faces of the invaders. He shot six times without a pause.

There was no misfires, and so close were the suspects and detectives that the powder from Blair's gun burned their clothes.

Episcopal House of Deputies Adopts Important Legislation at Boston.

ERIE MAN ELECTED BISHOP

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—The important legislation adopted at the Episcopalian general convention today was a resolution in the house of deputies which provides for special forms of worship, to meet the requirements of foreign congregations which might be brought into the church. The resolution was presented some time ago by Dr. William Huntington of New York. The proposition was bitterly fought at the San Francisco convention and met with considerable opposition here, many claiming that the measure would lead to great diversity in forms of worship. The resolution will be acted upon by the house of bishops.

The house of bishops considered the amendment to the divorce canon placing further restrictions upon the remarriage of innocent persons in a divorce for infidelity, which was adopted by the deputies yesterday as a compromise, but after discussing the issue in secret for two hours and a half a vote was deferred until tomorrow.

In executive session the house of deputies elected missionary bishops as follows: Bishop of Salt Lake, the Rev. Franklin S. Spalding of Erie, Pa.; bishop of Hankow, China, the Rev. Logan H. Roots of Hankow, formerly of Arkansas; bishop of Mexico, the Rev. Henry D. Aves of Houston, Tex.; bishop of Cuba, the Very Rev. Alston W. Knight, dean of St. Philips Pro-Cathedral, Atlanta, Ga.

CAROTHERS IS HOPEFUL.

Reports Crucible Steel Company in Condition to Pay All but Bonded Debt.

James Carothers returned yesterday from Jersey City, where he attended the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Crucible Steel Company. Mr. Carothers was the representative of a number of holders of the stock. He spoke encouragingly about the situation and thus it is believed, aided in preventing a further slump in the company's stock on the Pittsburgh stock exchange.

Mr. Carothers thinks that none of the proposed $7,000,000 bonds will be issued until three or six months have elapsed, as the company is well able to pay every dollar of debt except the amount of the bonds issued. Mr. Carothers said if there should be a reorganization of the board it would come about gradually and would not disturb the company's affairs.

AWARD MAY BE DELAYED.

No Decision of Committee on Carnegie Schools Architects' Contest Today.

William McConway, chairman of the committee on award in the Carnegie technical schools architects' contest, is expected to arrive in the city from the east this morning. A decision on the plans submitted was expected today, but as the chairman is required to give 24 hours' notice in calling a meeting it is not believed a meeting will be held today.

Warren P. Laird, consulting architect to the committee, arrived in the city from Philadelphia last night for the purpose of being on hand to confer with the committee as soon as a meeting is called. Director A. A. Hamerschlag made several unsuccessful efforts to reach Mr. McConway in New York by telephone yesterday.

LARGE DEALINGS IN PENNSYLVANIA

OVER 1,000,000 SHARES SOLD

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau, Herald Building, Herald Square, NEW YORK, Oct. 21.

The stock market displayed considerable strength and activity today, and prices of principal stocks were higher than yesterday. The coalers were specially stimulated by the advance in New York, Ontario & Western, and the possibility of a little competition as a result. Up to 1 o'clock there were 1,213,000 shares traded in, as compared with 791,500 shares in the same time yesterday, and the total sales for the day were more than 1,900,000 shares. London was said to have bought fully 25,000 shares of Ontario & Western. Ontario rose to above 41 in this market.

Dealings in Pennsylvania were enormous. Ellingwood & Cunningham starting the movement with purchases of 15,000 shares. Then Wassermann Bros. bought 20,000 shares, and A. O. Brown & Co. 5,000. Wassermann Bros. also bid 137¾ for 50,000 shares or any part thereof. Reading opened 1¾ above yesterday's close. Union Pacific advanced ¾ on improved earnings to 107⅞. Delaware & Hudson made a new high record for this movement, selling up to 177, then advancing 1¾.

The traction stocks were again uncommonly strong on further reports of a combination of all the systems. Interborough advanced another 2½ points to 162½, a total advance of 13½ points in two days. The report was that it would be taken over by Metropolitan Securities at $200 a share. Metropolitan Securities went to 88, Metropolitan Street Railway to 130⅜ and Manhattan to 162.

NEW SCALE UNSIGNED.

Local Bridgeworkers Get No Reply from American Bridge Company.

President Frank Buchanan of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday morning and spent the day conferring with local officials. One of the matters occupying his attention is the new scale presented the American Bridge Company by the local union.

The new scale was arranged several weeks ago, but so far the union has received no word from the company. It is expected President Buchanan will take up the matter with the company's officials. He left last night for Wheeling to straighten out some minor disputes.

VANDERBILTS IN CONTROL OF ONTARIO & WESTERN

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—What was declared to be authoritative information was circulated in Wall street today to the effect that control of Ontario and Western passed to the New York, New Haven & Hartford, a Vanderbilt road, yesterday. That a deal was pending was accepted generally as a fact when the stock of the Ontario boomed over 40, an advance of four points for the day.

The statement was made at the offices of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., which was said a month ago to have acquired control of Ontario, that there was no announcement to make regarding the property. Later the anonymous report that was asserted to be authentic, that was circulated in Wall street and was generally believed, confirmed the impression that the New Haven had taken over Ontario.

BREAKDOWN IN POWER HOUSE TIED UP TRACTION LINES

Cars on the Pittsburgh divisions of the Pittsburgh Railways Company were tied up for about 15 minutes last evening as a result of a machine breaking down in the Twentieth street power house of the traction company. The breakdown occurred about 6:15 o'clock, the time when evening traffic is the heaviest, and many people returning home from work and who depend on the traction cars for transportation were late in arriving at their homes.

PRESIDENT'S PEACE NOTE SOON GOING TO POWERS

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21. — President Roosevelt's note to the powers regarding a second peace conference at The Hague will be submitted to all nations in the form of a circular note, which will be sent out by the state department within two days. Secretary Hay brought this note to the consideration of the cabinet today. Doubt being expressed as to this being an expedient time, owing to the war in the orient, no suggestion as to date was made.

The note asks the opinions of the powers in regard to holding, when practicable, a peace conference to carry on the work of regulating warfare, and determining international rights and privileges, which was only partly done by the first peace conference in 1899.

GROVER SPEAKS FOR DEMOCRACY

GETS A ROUSING GREETING

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—John G. Carlisle was the principal speaker at the Business Men's Parker and Davis mass meeting in Carnegie hall tonight, according to the program, but eloquent and scholarly as is the former secretary of the treasury it was not he, but the chairman of the meeting, Grover Cleveland, who was the star attraction. Many women were there, including Mrs. Cleveland, who was smiling and beautiful as ever. She occupied a stage box with friends.

When Mr. Cleveland strode out on the stage the whole house rose to welcome him. They cheered him as no speaker has been cheered before at a Democratic meeting in the present campaign. Even mention of the name of Judge Parker, which caused the second demonstration of the night, did not cause as loud, as long nor as vigorous applause as that which greeted the former president.

Carnegie hall seats about 4,000 people. The doors were opened at 7 o'clock and had to be closed 20 minutes later, as every seat was occupied, and there was a throng of at least double as many as had come in beating against the police walls that were drawn all around the building.

The crowd had eyes only for Cleveland. The cheering began the moment his portly form became visible in the rear of the stage and did not cease for many minutes. When quiet was restored Mr. Cleveland was introduced and began his speech. He attacked Roosevelt, without naming him, and spoke fiercely of the delinquencies of the Republican party. His utterances on the trust question were unexpectedly severe, but he made no promises for Judge Parker in this regard. At the conclusion of his speech he received another ovation and then he gave place to John G. Carlisle.

Mr. Cleveland's Speech.

Mr. Cleveland spoke in part as follows:

My attachment to the party which won my early allegiance has been intensified with passing years, because I have found in the principles from which genuine democracy has derived its life and vigor, safe guidance and constant inspiration, when, as a public servant, I owed to my fellow countrymen patriotic effort and unsparing devotion to the people's trust. But the principles and best traits of the Democratic party reach their highest importance and value at such a time as this, when our people are tempted by glittering delusions, and when they are offered the kingdoms of the world if they will but throw themselves down and worship the God of Mammon. I believe we have fallen upon days when, more than ever, the enforcement of democratic doctrine and the acceptance of democratic conservatism and steadiness are needed, if our national greatness and the well-being of our people are to be put beyond jeopardy. It is not for me to discuss on this occasion the democratic creed, or to deal at large with the issues involved in the present campaign. We are here to listen to one who stands in the front rank of those who expound the Democratic party faith.

In a country like ours, where parties contest for the direction of the government, we must, of course, expect party advocacy and honorable personal ambitions for political honors; but who, among those indulging in the farthest retrospect of political campaigns, can recall one in which the advantages of present party control have been so palpably and unblushingly used for its perpetuation, or in which the functions belonging to the entire American people have been more insolently forced to do partisan service? When before has it been so distinctly claimed that all the virtues, all the patriotism and all the governing ability of our citizenship are found among the members of one political party; and when before have those of our citizens, not among the chosen, been so boldly considered as aliens in their own land, who should be cast into outer political darkness as unworthy to be entrusted with the power and responsibility of a government established by the people and for the people? When in all our history has a party so presumptuously as now claimed to be the donors of the gifts of God, or when has one so persistently plumed itself upon the creation of all the prosperity that has fallen to our country's lot?

Such arrogance is not new to the party which now seeks at the hands of the people a renewal of our government's control; but it has so grown by what it has fed upon as now shamelessly to assume that the time has arrived when popular heedlessness or dullness will permit boasting and reckless assertion to pass for truth and reason. If this assumption is justified there can be no doubt that the sober and responsible political thought and watchfulness, upon which the true intent and purpose of our government depends, are in grievous peril. If, on the other hand, this assumption is viciously unwarranted, it is an insult to American manliness which should arouse prompt and effective resentment.

Infallibility and Superciliousness.

Never before have our people been so belabored with party deliverances, which, in every line and every word, from platform declaration to the last appeal of party advocacy are so saturated with conceited and tiresome claims of infallibility, and with supercilious disdain of all political efforts except such as are attempted under the banner of republicanism. Shall this pass current at a time when, at the parting of the ways in our nation's development we are especially called to patriotic thoughtfulness and careful contemplation of party designs and to a vigilant watch against dangers that beset us? My faith in my countrymen will not permit me to believe this, or to doubt that they will insist upon examining for themselves the accounts of party stewardship.

They know that their country's prosperity, like the rains of heaven which freshen and beautify the ornamental lawn and at the same time make productive the farm and garden, should be distributed among all the people in every station of life; and they will challenge the claim of a party which boasts of a prosperity it has wrought which gives to its pampered favorites added opportunities to increase their riches, while the poor and those who toil, wait like Lazarus to be fed from the crumbs which fall from the rich man's table.

The party will be given just credit which, early or late, has endeavored to safeguard the soundness of the nation's currency, but the people will reject as sagoring of presumption the insistence that only those belonging to one party organization can claim to be the protectors and defenders of our financial integrity; nor will they forget that the fight was hotly on when many of the leaders of the party now making such an insistence were worse than lukewarm in the cause.

A party may indulge in self-congratulation when it has effectively defended the people in their daily life from the rapacity of trusts and combinations, which thrive as private enterprise is strangled, and which grow fat, as, by their control of the cost of living, they cause the homes of our land to grow lean; but the people will hardly approve the vociferous pride which claims that a successful attack upon the merger of the stock of certain competing railroads has rescued them from their oppressors. They will not fail to observe that the huge combinations which directly injure them still flourish, and they may also recall how the consternation among those implicated in such schemes who once feared a general pursuit was quieted when the soothing assurance reached them that the government did not intend to "run amuck." Nor will they probably accept the suggestion that repentance or a change of heart accounts for the manner by which the threats and animosity of many powerful trust magnates have been displaced by their approval and substantial support of the party which seeks to convince the people of its trust-destroying proclivities.

Strikes at Protection.

This item of the account will not be passed over without a reference to the platform statement that "protection, which guards and develops our industries, is a cardinal policy of the Republican party," nor without noting the declaration of the candidate standing on this platform, that the protective tariff policy ought now to be considered as "definitely established." The question will be asked, Which are the American industries that at this time are in need of the shelter of such a tariff as that now in force, and is there never to be a time when American enterprise, American ingenuity and American opportunity will free our industries from their state of infancy and permit American aspiration and American self-reliance to cast away the leading strings of a "definitely established" protective policy? The people know that this policy has given rise to reckless greed and to a worship of gain menacing patriotic sentiment and our love for high standards of national greatness, and they know that, at best, it lays burdens on the consumers of our land. They will see the sheer wrongfulness of this condition so clearly and they will so firmly believe that in this way they are made to bear tariff burdens in order that they may be discriminated against in favor of foreign consumers, that they will not be satisfied with the assurance that the tariff has nothing to do with trusts. They will consign such an explanation to the limbo of negation, to take its place with the outworn deception that the foreign exporter pays our tariff taxes, and with two other sadly weak pretenses—one that the tariff should be reformed only by its friends, and the other that the party which believes that a protective tariff policy ought to be considered as definitely established, loves reciprocity in trade.

When the platform boast is made that: "In the Philippines we have suppressed insurrection, established order and given to life and property a security never known there before," the confession will be extorted that the insurrection suppressed was no more than the crushing out of resistance to the army of the United States while engaged in the subjugation of a people thousands of miles from our shores, whom an incident of war undertaken by us in aid of those struggling for liberty and independence in another quarter, had put within our power; and the people will ask under what sanction was this subjugation entered upon by a nation pledged to the doctrine that all just powers of government are derived from the consent of the governed; and they will deny that imperialism and our forcible rule of foreign people have any place among the purposes of our national life.

When credit is claimed for securing a route for a long-desired interoceanic waterway, it will not be in a carping spirit that the people will look at the incident accompanying this achievement. They do not undervalue the object gained, but they keenly appreciate the importance and value of our national honor, our national good name, and, above all, our national morality. Not even the great worth of the thing accomplished will close the eyes of thoughtful Americans to the fact that in reaching the results we have exhibited such international ruthlessness and such selfish international immorality as have lastingly debilitated our reputation for good faith, and established a precedent which, in time to come, may be invoked to justify the most startling and reprehensible abandonment of the high ideals which have made us an example of the best civilization.

Pledges of Platform and Candidates.

I speak as a democrat attached to democratic principles and anxious for the ascendancy of my party when I congratulate the democracy of our country upon the clear and satisfying statements in our party platform and upon the manner in which its doctrines are attached by our candidates. We pledge to our countrymen, through our platform, rest, genuine prosperity, safety, and a return to the way marked out by the Constitution; and we promise, through our candidates, that, if it is the people's will, our platform shall be carried out and that under our governmental management democratic conservatism and care shall rule the national councils to the exclusion of rash impulse and spectacular demonstration. Let us hope that the day is near when all our people, having a correct appreciation of the value of the free institutions which God has vouchsafed to them, and animated by the spirit of true patriotism, may see their highest duty in continually guarding and defending those institutions against the decay which comes of neglect, the weakness which comes of undermining materialism, and the perversion which comes of disobedience to the laws of our national life and health.

Carlisle Starts a Demonstration.

Mr. Carlisle spoke at length on the Philippine question and after touching upon the subject of the tariff, took up the political claims of the Republican party and said:

"The Republican party having determined to claim everything now appropriates to itself all the credit for the establishment and maintenance of the gold standard of value in this country, when the truth is that the gold standard of value was established by the Democratic party before the Republican party was born."

Turning to Mr. Cleveland, Mr. Carlisle continued, saying:

"Here sits the man who, by his thorough appreciation of his official duty, by his indomitable will, by his political courage, and by his devotion to the credit and honor of the government rescued the gold standard from the dangerous assaults made upon it by Republican legislation. And how does the Republican party now regard this great service rendered to the country by Mr. Cleveland? In the platform and in its candidates' letters of acceptance it assails his administration for issuing and selling bonds which everybody knows was the only means by which gold payments could be maintained and the gold standard preserved."

Mr. Carlisle concluded his address with a eulogy of Alton B. Parker which caused another demonstration, the audience rising and cheering for some time.

Hoke Smith Speaks.

HARTFORD, CONN., Oct. 21.—Hoke Smith, who was secretary of the interior in President Cleveland's cabinet, was the principal speaker at a Democratic rally here tonight. He criticised the expenditures under the present administration and the president's treatment of the Panama question, and urged immediate independence for the Filipinos.

Why do we so often refer to the family physician?

Because we make doctors' medicines. We give doctors the formula for Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and they prescribe it for coughs, colds, bronchitis, consumption. We trust them; they trust us. Ask your doctor about this medicine. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

PROGRESS REPRESENTED BY REPUBLICAN POLICIES

Continuity of Patriotic Purpose a Distinguishing Trait of Party, Declares Fairbanks in Hollidaysburg Speech.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

ALTOONA, Oct. 21.—Senator Charles W. Fairbanks arrived here this evening. Several thousand people greeted him at the station and most of them attended a reception given at the Logan house. Mr. Fairbanks was assisted in receiving by John M. Reynolds, candidate for congress; by State Senator Steinemann and by Congressman Castor of Philadelphia, who accompanied him to the city.

On his arrival at Hollidaysburg this evening Senator Fairbanks was escorted to the court house by an immense parade, and the line of march was brilliantly illuminated. The auditorium was crowded to its capacity and the speaker was given marked attention, with frequent interruption by prolonged applause. He said in part:

It is important that there should be in charge of our great national affairs a party with continuity of purpose, a party standing for those great policies which were good yesterday, which are good today and which will be good tomorrow. The American people are building not only for today, but for the future. It is important if we must win the highest trophies that we stand by those great fundamental principles which are as challengeless as the stars above us. The Republican party appeals to the intelligent patriotism of the American people upon its past record and upon the policies enunciated in its great political convention.

One thing about the Republican party is that its policies stand for progress. They stand for advancement. They stand for expansion and domestic trade. They stand for the expansion of our commerce in all of the ports of the earth. They stand for the prosperity in the hamlet, city and village from one end of the republic to the other. Our Democratic friends are unfortunate in their policies.

Their policies change with the seasons. They put on and take off political issues as you would put on and take off an old coat. The Republican party has stood for the gold standard. Why? Bebause it is essential to our highest and fullest commercial development. The gold standard fills the people with confidence. The protective tariff system, the currency system, two essential systems to our commercial development, are the fruits of Republican statesmanship. The Republican party has stood for both of them successfully against the assaults of Democracy.

DEMOCRATS ASK CLOSE ODDS

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau,
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, Oct. 21.

Interest in election betting centered today mainly upon the changes in odds between Judge Herrick and Mr. Higgins. Mr. Higgins' chances continued to improve. At one time he became better than a 10 to 9 favorite. One bet was made of $2,000 to $1,700 on Higgins. The odds went back quickly to 10 to 9, and at the close the Republicans were offering only even money on his chances.

Democrats were demanding at the close odds of 9 to 10 on their candidate for governor. At those figures the betting closed. The previous night it was an even choice between the two candidates, but the first bet made favored Judge Herrick, $2,000 to $1,900 being wagered. Then even money was bet in several lots, after which Higgins clearly loomed up as the favorite. Local supporters of Judge Herrick bet freely at the longer odds, and forced the betting back to the figures mentioned.

In national results, President Roosevelt continues to be a 4 to 1 favorite, and the $5,000 which E. C. Potter & Co. had unabsorbed from the previous day's betting was taken without changing the odds. This money would easily have changed the odds against Judge Parker had the betting commissioners decided to shorten the odds. They displayed no intention of doing so, however, and succeeded finally in getting $20,000 against $5,000.

It was Bunnell, Buchanan & Co. which placed the $2,000 to $1,700 bet on Higgins with W. G. Gallagher. President Roosevelt still rules a 2 to 1 favorite on the results in this state.

SHOOTING AFFRAY HAS ENDED IN A MURDER

Stephen Bartory, who was shot in a quarrel near Cheswick Tuesday, died at the Allegheny general hospital yesterday from his wound. It is alleged Bartory was shot by Loison Sxanke, who is now in jail. Mrs. Bartory had some words with her husband about Sxanke, whom it is alleged she was infatuated with, and during the altercation Sxanke defended the woman from Bartory and shot him in the abdomen. There are five witnesses to the case in jail.

LETTER TO SHAW NOT A SECRET

Lodge Says It Was Published and Also Was Given to Democratic Senators.

AGAINST CULBERSON CLAIM

QUINCY, MASS., Oct. 21.—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge addressed a big Republican meeting here tonight. He said:

Nothing could show the desperate and helpless condition of the Democratic campaign more strongly than the publication under misleading headlines of the president's letter to Dr. Albert Shaw, which was read at a public meeting in New York last night by Senator Culberson of Texas. The headlines in the Democratic newspapers announced that this letter is a great exposure of the president, and proves his complicity in the Panama revolution. The letter proves the exact reverse of what the headlines claim for it. The letter demonstrates not that the president was guilty of complicity in the Panama revolution, but that he had absolutely refused to do anything which could by any possibility be taken as encouragement to the projects of revolution.

Here Senator Lodge read the letter, and followed the reading with these words:

Comment is needless. The letter, a private one, was written October 10, 1903. The revolution occurred November 2, and the letter written long before the revolution, in all the fullness of private confidence, demonstrates that the president, no matter what his private wishes were, could not, and did not, take any part whatever in fomenting or encouraging the insurrection.

The effort is made to give the impression that this letter is something new, just dragged from dark recesses to throw light upon a shady transaction. What are the facts? Just after the revolution of November 2 and 3, the opposition press freely charged that the administration was guilty of complicity in fomenting and encouraging the revolution. Thereupon the president directed that this letter be given to the press and be published in order to show, as it does show, that he had carefully and scrupulously refrained from fomenting insurrection, and the letter was accordingly given out and published just a year ago. The letter is not new, it has been published before, and published by order of the president. As the sudden revelation of a suppressed document, this performance is simply ludicrous.

But this is not all. Senator Culberson says that from the correspondence on Panama matters sent to the senate, this letter was "significantly withheld." Senator Culberson knows, as well as I, that no senator has ever asked or could ask for a president's private letter, and that no president has ever sent, or ever will send into the senate with official correspondence, his private letters, and this letter was private, personal and unofficial. Moreover, this letter was not withheld either significantly or otherwise. Two months or more after the revolution, and while the debate upon the Panama treaty was going on in the senate, an officer of the senate told me that the Democratic senators were searching for a letter which they understood had been written to Dr. Shaw, which had appeared somewhere, and which they understood convicted the president of complicity in fomenting the revolution.

I replied that I knew the letter they meant, that it had been published, that it was the exact reverse of what they thought, but that if they wanted it I would gladly get them a copy of it. I went to the White House, got a copy of this letter to Dr. Shaw, and, with full permission, took it to the senate and gave it to Senator Gorman. A day or two after Senator Gorman asked me if I had any objection to his giving it to Senator Culberson. I said not the least, that the letter had been published and they could do what they liked with it. The Panama treaty went to a vote with that letter to Dr. Shaw in the possession of Democratic senators.

DEPEW AND SHAW MAKE SPEECHES

Former Says We Need a Foreign Outlet for Our Products.

LATTER TALKS ON TARIFF

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 21.—Senator Depew and Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw addressed a large mass meeting here tonight. Senator Depew devoted most of his time to an exposition of the administration's position on the Philippine and Panama questions. He said:

There are but 24,000 Filipinos sufficiently educated to be entrusted with self-government, and even they are not educated in human liberty. They would inaugurate an empire if the protection of the American government was withdrawn. Then would come the necessity of interference by foreign nations, and we must remember that while we are the greatest producing nation in the world we have got beyond the consuming power of our own people. We are producing two thousand millions a year more on the farm, in the mines, the mill, and the workshop than we can consume, and if we do not find a foreign outlet, it will come back upon us and produce an industrial congestion. We have the outlet in the orient. With our laws extended around them no one can get into that market but ourselves, and year by year their demands for our products will increase and multiply.

Secretary Shaw followed with a discussion of national issues, speaking particularly of the tariff. Admitting the Democratic claim that American goods are sometimes sold cheaper abroad than at home he said:

I prefer that American goods be sold abroad at less than cost of production rather than that foreign goods should be sold here at less than cost. It does not harm me that the product of American labor is sold abroad at such prices as to forbid competition. If any one has a right to complain it is the foreign laborer, on whose market the goods are sold. It would hurt me if the protective tariff were removed so as to permit German and English and French products to be dumped in America to the prejudice of the American artisans. Our factories could not run sixty days in the face of over-production in Europe if it were not for our protective tariff, and the closing of those factories would throw a million men out of employment to the absolute prostration of every industry and the bankruptcy of every American enterprise.

DR. GINNER, THE FAMOUS SCOTCH PHYSICIAN, IS BUSY

This Is One of the Most Remarkable Cases On Medical Record.

To the Editor:

Dear Sir—Please be so kind as to publish this in your paper, as I think it my duty to let the public know of my wonderful recovery. I am a married woman and have a family. Some four years ago I began to have a pain in my breast. I consulted many noted physicians. They told me I had a cancer and must undergo a surgical operation, and then not be sure of being cured. I put it off, and thank God I did, for I have been told of Dr. Ginner, the great specialist from Scotland, and being acquainted with some people he had already cured, I went to him, and Dr. Ginner removed the cancer without the use of a knife or the loss of a drop of blood and very little pain. After the doctor put on his application the cancer fell out on the tenth day and now I am cured. It seems so wonderful I can hardly believe it, but I rejoice to testify that it is true. I recommend all people to go to Dr. Ginner, 703 Penn avenue, Pittsburgh, for advice. He is such a nice gentleman and he can cure everything.

Respectfully,
Mrs. Elizabeth Griffith,

Eighteenth Ward, Pittsburgh.

PARKER CHARGES LACK OF ECONOMY

His Principal Complaint Is Regarding Money Spent on Army and Philippines.

QUOTES EDWARD ATKINSON

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ESOPUS, N. Y., Oct. 21.—Judge Parker today addressed a delegation from Hudson county, N. Y., on the subject of administrative extravagance, answering a speech made by Secretary of War Taft, in which the secretary called upon the Democrats to give a bill of particulars in connection with their charge that economy in government affairs had been forgotten in the years the republicans have been in control of national affairs. He said in part:

We asserted that only seven years ago and under a Democratic president, the total expenses of this government were less than $380,000,000 and we charged that in the last fiscal year the expenditures were over $882,000,000. These figures have not been denied and they cannot be. Deducting from the latter amount the sum paid by this government for the Panama canal and the Panama canal rights, we still have $532,000,000. After making that deduction we find that it cost about $160,000,000 more to run the government last year than it did seven years ago.

Would Not Cut Pensions.

By way of indirect answer to the Democratic charge of extravagance the inquiry has been put by the administration whether we propose to cut off the pensions. We answer, certainly not. The amount paid out in pensions has been decreasing every year since 1898. But for the unwarranted order No. 78, which was fully considered in my letter of acceptance, the amount paid for pensions in the seventh preceding year would have exceeded the amount paid last year.

As it was the difference was only $1,500,000.

The inquiry is further made by the administration whether we would dare to reduce the cost of the army. We answer that most assuredly we would, and we ask the people to decide between the administration and the Democratic contention on that point. In the year 1897 the war department cost less than $49,000,000, which was about the average cost per year for the preceding 20 years. This last year, a year of peace, the cost of the army was $115,000,000. One of these questions we now ask the people is: "What is the use of spending more than double on the army now than we deemed wise to spend previous to the Spanish war?"

A large standing army was unnecessary then, so our statesmen thought, and the result proved. It is alike unnecessary now unless militarism is to become a part of our policy.

Must We Play "Big Policeman?"

If we are to play the role of the "Big Policeman" in the South American states, then we should readily admit that we should have an army costing $115,000,000 a year.

But the president has not the power to declare a policy equivalent to a threat of armed intervention whenever he shall decide the circumstances justify it. An attempt to exercise such a power would constitute a usurpation prohibited by the Constitution of the United States. Hence it is safe to assume that notwithstanding the letter of Secretary Root, which was read at the Cuban anniversary dinner, no administration will dare attempt to "establish a universal protectorate over American states or to become responsible for their misdeeds."

Mr. Olney thus admirably stated the purpose of the Monroe doctrine in his address at Harvard college, March 2, 1898: "The vital feature of the Monroe doctrine is that no European power shall forcibly possess itself of American soil, and forcibly control the political fortunes and destinies of its people."

That is the national position and it will be maintained.

Many Millions Can Be Saved.

In the conduct of the war department alone there can be saved to the people many millions a year, which the administration not only does not propose to save but is frank enough to say it. Take another illustration, which I recite as furnishing strong presumptive evidence of extravagance. Seven years ago under Democratic administration the civil and miscellaneous expenses of the government amounted to $90,000,000 for the year.

Now what has happened? So tremendously have our expenditures under that head grown during the last seven years that the last fiscal year they amounted to $186,000,000, more than double the expenditures of 1897. If we deduct the extraordinary expenditures for the Panama canal and rights, amounting to $50,000,000, we still find the expenditures under that head to be $46,000,000 greater than they were seven years ago, an increase of more than 50 per cent.

I have on another occasion referred to the waste of money in the Philippines, putting the cost to us at $650,000,000, in addition to the $20,000,000 paid to Spain for the opportunity of taking its place in wasting lives and money on the Philippines, asserting not a dollar of it will ever come back to us. The answers so far have betrayed a desire to destroy the effect the statement should have.

Take Issue on Amount Expended.

To that end an issue is attempted to be made as to the amount expended. The defenders of this policy of waste say that if put the figures too high. An examination of the speeches of senators and representatives in congress recently made, including that of Senator Hoar in the senate of the United States, May 22, 1902, will show that my statement of cost was an underestimate, as it was intended to be.

Edward Atkinson, whose fame as a statistician is secure in the confidence of his countrymen, in a letter to the New York Times of October 20, 1904, estimates the cost to us at $200,000,000 a year and the probable cost to date at $1,200,000,000. The vast sums thus expended come out of the pockets of our taxpayers. Not a dollar of it will be returned to them, and it is for them to determine whether they are willing to have their money expended in support of such a policy. If they are, then other islands and other countries may be added to our possessions, until their cost of maintenance compels every worker in this country to support a soldier and his family, as well as himself and his own.

A further bill of particulars will be furnished as soon as a Democratic administration has had a chance to examine the books.

LAST DAY OF THE EXPO.

Excursion Trains Will Run Into the City and Large Crowds Are Expected.

Special Musical Programs.

This is the last day of the Pittsburgh Exposition season of 1904 and enormous crowds are expected. All the railroads have arranged to run excursions into the city, the trains beginning to arrive in the morning and continuing until well on in the afternoon.

Walter Damrosch, conductor of the New York Symphony orchestra, has arranged a series of farewell programs that have been unequalled by any presented during the season. Weber, Mendelssohn, Chopin, Bizet, Beethoven, Wagner, Rossini, Strauss, Bach, Gounod, Verdi and other composers of equal fame are included in the program. At the afternoon concerts, at which it is expected women will predominate, the selections are those always delighted in by the gentler sex. In the evening will be heard the masterpieces of the greatest of composers. During the last concert Dan Beddoe will make his farewell appearance before the Exposition crowds for the present season. David Mannes, concertmeister, will be heard in a violin solo. The afternoon programs:

DEMOCRATS ABANDONING NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS

Quitting the Work of the Campaign and Admit That Judge Parker Will Be Defeated—Joseph G. Johnson Leaves for Kansas.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The complete breakdown of the Democratic national campaign almost three weeks in advance of the election has caused much surprise among practical politicians. There is no attempt to conceal the fact that the campaign has gone to pieces and that the overwhelming defeat of Judge Parker is conceded by many of his friends.

The Democratic national headquarters is a grotto of gloom. The hired men there are packing their personal belongings and going home angry and disgusted. They expected to draw salaries until election day. Every man at headquarters, who talks at all, admits very frankly that Parker has no chance of election.

Most of the Democratic congressmen who have been making speeches for the national committee have thrown up their jobs and hurried home to try to save themselves in their own districts. By the end of the week, at the present rate of exodus, the headquarters will be practically deserted.

Joseph G. Johnson of Kansas, former chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, who remained at national headquarters despite the departure of ex-Chairman James K. Jones and ex-Secretary Walsh, has had differences with Belmont and Sheehan, it is said, and has returned to his home for the remainder of the campaign.

VOTERS TO SPARE IN THIS COUNTY

Republicans So Numerous That Four Trainloads Will Go to Wheeling Today.

MONSTER RALLY TONIGHT

Allegheny county has so many Republicans that the national committee has not hesitated to call upon Pittsburgh oratorical talent to assist the party in other states. That is why, although there have been some large meetings with speakers of national fame, the national committee sent but few of the great men of the party to make speeches in Allegheny county, and it is also the reason other cities have called upon Pittsburgh organizations to help them in their political demonstrations.

Four special trains will carry Pittsburgh marching clubs to Wheeling today to take part in the demonstration for the vice presidential candidate, Senator Fairbanks, who will speak there. The Young Men's Republican Tariff club, the Americus club, the Eleventh Ward Republican club, the James Francis Burke club of the Nineteenth ward and the P. C. Knox club of Allegheny will leave for the Nail City today at 2:45 p. m.

Senator Fairbanks and party arrived in their private car at the Union station shortly after 1 a. m. today and will leave for Wheeling at 7:45 a. m. A reception committee of Wheeling men arrived in town last night and will accompany the senator back to Wheeling. The committee consists of George Wise, chairman; S. G. Smith, chairman of the West Virginia state campaign advisory committee and chairman of the congressional committee of the Wheeling district; C. H. Watkins, Jr., Thomas O'Brien, Jr., and Dr. G. W. Otto.

There are few Republican strongholds in the country which could afford to send away so many clubs on the day on which one of the biggest rallies of the campaign is to be held in the stronghold itself, yet that is what Pittsburgh has done.

Tonight's Big Meeting.

All the arrangements have been completed for the Republican mass meeting at Kenwood lawn tonight. Former Senator William Flinn will preside. He will open the meeting with a short address and introduce the speakers, former Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith, Congressman John Dalzell and J. McF. Carpenter. The speaking will begin promptly at 8 o'clock. Mr. Smith will arrive at 3 p. m. and Mr. Dalzell will come in from Sunbury, where he spoke last night.

The Americus Republican club arrived home yesterday morning from its trip to New York, where it acted as special escort to Senator Fairbanks. The club received applause from start to finish of the parade; the climax was reached when the club marched into Madison Square garden, with its red, white and blue umbrellas raised, headed by the Seventy-first Regiment band of 75 pieces. The audience rose and cheered for 10 minutes, until the 150 members were seated. During Secretary Root's speech the club presented him with an Americus club badge and umbrella, with which the secretary kept time to the cheering.

Senator Fairbanks called at the headquarters and especially requested the club to act as his personal escort in Wheeling tonight. The senator said the greatest demonstration he had ever witnessed was when, during the applause, the club, headed by its colors, marched up and down the center aisle with its raised umbrellas.

Chairman Thomas J. Ford has called a meeting of the Republican campaign committee for this afternoon at the county headquarters to "round things up," as Chairman Ford put it. The committee will decide whether to have a big demonstration on the last Saturday before the election, or, if a day demonstration is decided upon, on some other day. If Senator Knox can be here to preside a big meeting will be held in Exposition hall.

A Republican meeting to suggest candidates for the Republican nomination for select council in the Seventeenth ward, to fill the place formerly occupied by A. H. Leslie, will be held tonight in the Main street schoolhouse. E. M. Grove and Snowden Lennox are the candidates whose names have been most prominently mentioned. The primaries will be held on October 28. The Republicans of the Twenty-second ward will also hold a suggestion meeting tonight in the Linden schoolhouse.

Meetings were held last night in the New England schoolhouse, Mifflin township, Dr. A. J. Barchfeld being the chief speaker; in the schoolhouse in East McKeesport, in Bank hall, Coraopolis; in the Thaddeus Stevens schoolhouse, Thirty-sixth ward; in the Bane schoolhouse, Twenty-seventh ward; in the John Dalzell clubhouse, Seventeenth ward.

A Republican rally will be held tonight in the Luckey school, Thirty-fifth ward.

REPUBLICANS WILL WIN IN DOUBTFUL STATES

New York Sun Declares Connecticut, New Jersey, West Virginia and Wisconsin Are Safe.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The Evening Sun today prints a careful analysis of political conditions in Connecticut, New Jersey, West Virginia and Wisconsin, which at the opening of the presidential campaign were regarded by both parties as doubtful. Twenty days before election, according to the Sun's correspondent, they can be placed in the Republican column for Roosevelt and Fairbanks, without hesitation or the slightest apprehension that the statement may have to be revised. In Connecticut and West Virginia the Democrats may pull their state ticket through; in Wisconsin and West Virginia they may gain a congressman or two.

The Republican pluralities on the electoral ticket are reasonably sure to be substantial in all the five states, probably as large as those received by McKinley and Roosevelt in 1900.

CHARGES ARE UNWARRANTED.

Flat Denial Given to Circular Claim That Non-Union Labor Is Employed on New Capitol.

HARRISBURG, PA., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—Attention has been called by M. M. Garland, ex-president of the Amalgamated association, to the circular sent to organized labor in this state bearing the signatures of the executive board of the Allied Building Trades of Philadelphia, attacking the Republican party as responsible for the employment of non-union labor on the capitol building at Harrisburg. The charges, Mr. Garland declares, are absolutely unfounded and are believed to have their origin in a war between the two factions of the painters' organizations. There is no question of non-unionism connected with the construction of the capitol.

The contractor, says Mr. Garland, who secured the painting is employing members of the Amalgamated Journeymen House Painters and Decorators Beneficial association. The Brotherhood of Painters and Decorators claim to be the only legitimate organization and while each seeks to minimize the numbers of the other they both seem to have about the same number of members in Philadelphia. Both the painters' organizations are incorporated and their war has been on for years. To interfere in their battles would not alone be unwise and impolitic, but would also be an act amenable under the law. Concluding, Mr. Garland says, that the circular savors strongly of Democratic campaign cast.

Cure for Asthma and Hay Fever

Mrs. Mary Zachery, Pleasant Hill, La., says: "I have found your Asthma Cure a permanent cure for Asthma, for which I used it 7 years ago. I have never had the slightest return of the trouble since. I have also found your remedy excellent in Bronchial affections."

A Hay Fever sufferer writes: "I have had Hay Fever for 14 years. I bought a package of your remedy (Schiffmann's Asthma Cure), of our druggist and due to its use this is the first summer that I have not been troubled." Mrs. Frank Guilfogle, 6237 Ridge avenue, Roxboro, Philadelphia.

Mr. W. Sererus, Cavalier, N. D., says: "I was troubled with asthma for 20 years, about 8 years ago I started to use your Asthma Cure, and have not had an attack for six years."

DELIGHTED, SAYS THE PRESIDENT

"A" BET THE WRONG WAY

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 21.

With his little dinky soft hat perched jauntily on his brow and with his cigar pointing toward his nose at an angle of forty-five degrees, "Uncle Joe" Cannon, Speaker of the house of representatives, sauntered up to the White House this morning. He was fresh from his long campaigning trip and had just arrived from West Virginia this morning. Nodding to the visitors in the outer office, the speaker strode on into the cabinet room, where the cabinet was assembling for its regular Friday session.

"Delighted," said President Roosevelt, as he grasped the Speaker's hand. "Hello," "There he is," "What a pleasure to see you," and other such expressions greeted him from the members of the cabinet. They were all anxious to hear "Uncle Joe" tell of the impressions he had gathered.

"It is the same wherever I have gone," said the Speaker to his inquirers. "Not a cloud on the horizon. It's easy, very easy, for us, this year. It is just like going down into the meadow and plucking the daisies from their long stems. It really seems a shame to do it, but we must. The country demands it."

Mr. Cannon lingered in the president's office but a short time, as he was scheduled to leave here this afternoon for Baltimore to make a speech this evening. As he came out into the reception room the newspaper men gathered about and rained a storm of questions at him.

"I have a bet on the state," said one inquirer.

"What is your bet?"

"A has bet B that the majority for the Republican national ticket in West Virginia this year will not exceed 10,000."

"Well," replied Uncle Joe, "A is a fool, and the sooner he hedges the better it will be for him."

Then he started off through the White House grounds. L. W. STRAYER.

Harrisburg Campaign Opened.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 21.—(Special.)—The Republican campaign in Dauphin county was formally opened this evening with a mass meeting in the court house, after a parade of all the Republican clubs in Harrisburg. The principal speakers were Frederick J. Shoyer, director of public supplies, Philadelphia; Maj. Alexander McDowell, chief clerk of the national house of representatives, and Congressman M. E. Olmstead, Harrisburg.

Preparing for Next Convention.

The officers and executive committee of the Western Pennsylvania Volunteer Firemen's association met last evening in Braddock to wind up business left over from the annual convention at Connellsville and to get in motion plans for the next convention at Donora. After the business session the visitors were the guests of the Braddock fire department at a banquet. Covers were laid for 95. Addresses were made by Fred W. Edwards and Fire Chief John Donovan of Braddock; President Engle, E. J. Perry of Greensburg; Director of the Poor Frank T. Redman of Braddock and W. J. Roseborough of McKeesport.

WRECK SPOILS BOOMERS' PLANS

MADE MERRY DURING DELAY

SPECIAL TELEGRAM FROM John P. Cowan, Staff Correspondent.

BELLAIRE, Oct. 21.—A freight wreck on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, 16 miles west of Bellaire, tonight, cut short the program of the entertainment of the Merchants and Manufacturers association here in Wheeling's big suburb. All day the special train crowded the schedule and was making a record fast run from Zanesville. The Bellaire committee had boarded the train and arrangements were being made for a big celebration when a dead stop was made at the edge of a corn field. Here the trade boomers were held two hours while the wreckers cleared the track.

It would have been a tedious wait for the stranded passengers with less enthusiastic travelers. However, everyone decided to make the most of a bad proposition. The guests in the correspondents' car organized a glee club and with a delegation of sword-bearers and orators marched through the train and serenaded the bankers in the rear sleeping car. The bankers in turn had provided themselves with tin horns and a noisy reception followed. It was close to midnight when the train reached Bellaire and the trade boomers soon retired. The reception in Bellaire will be held tomorrow morning.

J. J. McCormick, G. W. Yost and J. F. Anderson, representing the citizens of Bellaire, were on the train tonight when the delay occurred and will direct tomorrow's formalities.

The former part of the day was pleasantly and profitably spent, the boomers leaving Athens at daybreak and stopping briefly at Gloucester, New Lexington and Zanesville. A telephone message from President Ward of Pittsburgh common council was received to be read to the citizens of Bellaire.

CLEVELAND LAD STRANDED.

Was Visiting Relatives in Reading, and While Returning Home Lost His Railroad Ticket.

A little boy was seen roaming about the Union station train shed last evening, apparently looking for somebody. He was discovered by one of the railroad detectives. He gave his name as George MacFarland and said he was nearly 9 years old and lives in Union street, Cleveland.

About two weeks ago George and a brother, three years his senior, left Cleveland to visit their aunt in Reading. They arrived there safe and until Wednesday had an enjoyable time. Yesterday morning George decided he had seen enough of Reading and asked his brother to return home. The older brother refused and without any mention of his intentions George started himself.

He arrived in Harrisburg Thursday and James Fletcher, a railroad trainman, saw the boy asleep in the station, took him home and put him to bed. Yesterday morning Mr. Fletcher put George on a train which arrived in Pittsburgh early last evening. While on his way to Pittsburgh George lost his ticket. How he lost it he could not say.

The railroad officers telegraphed his parents in Cleveland and he will be sent home this morning if his story proves true.

BOYS ARE SUSPECTED.

Believe They Know Something of Theft of $2,000 Worth of Jewelry.

The South Side police yesterday arrested Joseph Schmotzer, aged 20, of 17 St. Martin street, and Joseph Herrick, aged 18, of St. Thomas street. Inspector Bernard McStay is of the opinion that the boys know something of the robbery of $2,000 worth of jewelry from the house of W. F. Rohrkaste in Boggs avenue last Monday.

It is said they were trying yesterday to dispose of some diamonds but when arrested nothing of this kind was found about them. Several persons who saw the robbers leave the Rohrkaste residence will be taken to No. 7 station today to look at the prisoners.

WANT TRACKS REMOVED.

McKeesport Officials Claim They Interfere With Improving Thoroughfares.

Unless the Pittsburgh Railways Company consents to take up its tracks on West Fifth avenue, McKeesport, within the next two weeks, City Engineer T. W. White will put the force of city men to work and remove them at the company's expense. The contractor in charge of the improvements being made to the street has had to quit the work owing to the operations of the street car company, and declares the work cannot be continued unless the street car tracks are removed. Officials of the street car company say it will be impossible for them to take up their tracks to accommodate the city. Next Monday night a resolution authorizing the city engineer to proceed with the work and notifying the street car company of their intention will be adopted by councils.

POLICE SHOT AT TARGET.

Inspector Bailey Made the Best Score, Although Others Were Close Behind.

At the pistol practice at No. 4 station yesterday Inspector Milton E. Bailey proved the crack shot of the 53 officers and policemen who participated. Lieut. Robert Emmett was second and Policeman Arthur Ehrenfield was third. Inspector Bailey scored 14 out of a possible 15. Lieut. Emmett 13 out of a possible 15, and Officer Ehrenfield 12 out of the same number. Policemen Michael Clifford and John Bennett, who are considered the best shots in the station, followed and claimed that the other officers scored ahead of them by chance.

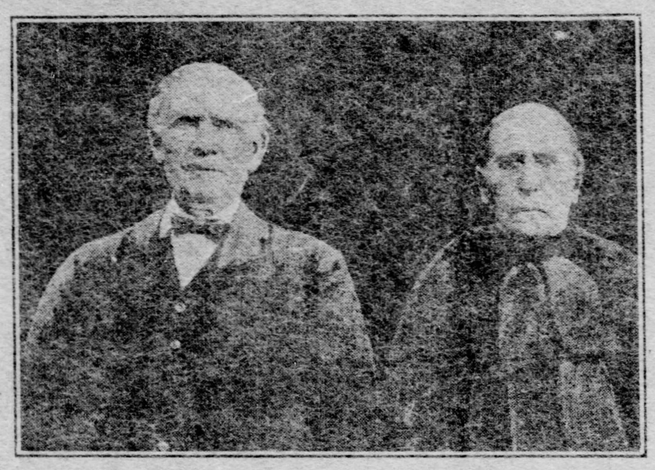
Sixty Years of Wedded Life Finds This Couple Still Happy



MR. AND MRS. GEORGE H. WOOD.

UNIONTOWN, PA., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—Ex-Postmaster and Mrs. George H. Wood of Fairchance, Pa., today in a quiet way observed the 60th anniversary of their wedding, which occurred October 21, 1844. Among those taking a keen interest in the event is Mrs. John Bierer of Uniontown, who acted as bridesmaid at the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Wood and has herself been married 55 years, that anniversary of her marriage to Capt. John Bierer of Uniontown having been observed last month. Both Mr. and Mrs. Wood and Capt. and Mrs. Bierer were married by the Rev. William Brownfield, a Baptist minister, who performed more marriage ceremonies than any other man that ever lived in Fayette county.

WON VICTORY BY SELF-SACRIFICE

JAPANESE GREAT GALLANTRY

LONDON, Oct. 22.—The Standard's Yental correspondent, telegraphing October 15, describes in graphic detail the final stages of the Shakhe battle and incidentally refers to the danger which temporarily threatened Field Marshal Oyama's right near Bensihu, where the Russians in overwhelming forces, nearly succeeded in turning the Japanese right and isolating the men sent to protect Oyama's right wing. He says it was the indomitable courage and energy of the Japanese infantry that saved the situation.

Detailing the struggle of October 13, south of the Shakhe river, the correspondent pays a tribute to the desperate courage of the Russians, who defended their positions with the greatest gallantry. The Japanese infantry, he says, again had the task of carrying a formidable position by a supreme effort and self-sacrifice. The slope up which they crept was swept by a storm of lead. The thin, dark line wavered under the blast and broke and scattered back down the hill, but a handful of heroes rallied and rushed headlong up the slope, halted, reformed and dashed on again, their numbers being lessened with every foot they advanced and once again they were swept back in confusion down the hillside.

But they had shown the way to others. Another company pushed forward with its left well thrown back. Again volleys crashed out, but this time unavailingly against the desperate headlong rush, and the indomitable little men gained the summit. The Russians rose to their feet, the ranks closed and rifle and bayonet were at work in one wild melee. It was only for a moment. Shaken by the courage of the Japanese the Russians broke and fled to their comrades below, already in retreat.

The assault and defense alike were a brilliant feat of arms in which the gallantry of the Russians was surpassed only by the devoted courage of the Japanese infantry. The Russians fell back to a range of low hills bordering the Shakhe river, whence, on the 14th, the artillery failing to dislodge them, the Japanese drove them in the afternoon by a magnificent spectacle of disciplined war involving terrible carnage, pursuing them down to the very banks of the Shakhe river.

The same correspondent under date of October 17 says: "Gen. Kuropatkin appears to be preparing to hold the plain in front of Mukden. He is concentrating troops and strengthening his defense works in three lines, the outer along the Shakhe river, the second along the Hun river and the innermost close to Mukden."

MYSTERY SURROUNDS THE CHLOROFORMING OF GIRL

Lawrenceville Woman Found Unconscious, With Saturated Lace Curtain Around Her Neck.

A chloroforming mystery is engaging the attention of the Lawrenceville police. Thursday night May Bennett, aged 19, of 154 Thirty-ninth street, was found lying across her bed unconscious, with a lace curtain tied around her neck saturated with a drug giving evidence of being chloroform. Members of the family refuse to discuss the case and the police are mystified.

The girl is suffering acutely from shock and during lapses of consciousness yesterday would tell of an attempted assault by an unknown man. Miss Bennett is an orphan and makes her home with a sister and two brothers. Several children who were playing on the doorstep Thursday night about 9 o'clock declare they heard the girl scream, and turning saw a man enter the parlor and lock the door behind him. Several drivers for James Ashton, an expressman, whose stables are in the rear of the house, ran to the house in answer to the girl's screams, but found the apartments locked. Entering the kitchen window a search of the apartment failed to locate anyone, although the house was in confusion with bureau drawers apparently ransacked. Later the girl was found unconscious.

Dr. J. A. Schill, who attended the girl, refuses to discuss the case further than to say that she is still in a dangerous condition. Whether the reputed assault was for the purpose of robbery is not known, as nothing was removed from the premises.

ARE AT SWORD'S POINT.

Members of Colored Congregation at New Homestead Go to Law Over Pastor Tibbs' Sermon.

As a result of a sermon preached last Sunday by the Rev. A. H. Tibbs, pastor of the colored African church at New Homestead, in which he portrayed the duties of a husband to his wife, a series of suits and cross suits were filed before Justice of the Peace J. Clyde Miller in Homestead yesterday, and half a hundred colored residents of New Homestead were subpoenaed as witnesses.

The first case was brought by Henry Pugh, a deacon, who charged the minister with disorderly conduct. The evidence developed that Tibbs preached a sermon on matrimony, and it is claimed that when he reached a strong point in his remarks he would look at Pugh. The minister and deacon and their respective wives are said to have quarreled over the sermon, and at the hearing the minister was fined $10 and costs. A number of other suits have been filed.

BETHEL WITHDRAWS FROM PITTSBURGH CONFERENCE

Congregation Holds Mass Meeting and Places Church Under Bishop Turner.

Bethel church has decided to withdraw from the Pittsburgh conference of the African Methodist Episcopal church. This action was taken at a mass meeting of the congregation, held in Edward's hall, Arthur street, last evening.

About 300 members of the church were present, out of a membership of 505. The vote was unanimous and the meeting was enthusiastic for withdrawal. At the same time resolutions were adopted declaring the church to be under the spiritual guidance of Bishop H. M. Turner of Atlanta, Ga., who will arrive in Pittsburgh Monday and will meet the congregation to hear its troubles.

The meeting was a warm one, but the audience was all of one mind. A report was received from three delegates who had been sent to the conference at Uniontown to ask that the Rev. J. S. Lee be returned to Bethel church. This request was refused by Bishop Derrick of this diocese, and he assigned Mr. Lee to Wheeling, W. Va. He gave as a reason to the delegates that other ministers in this conference did not want Mr. Lee retained.

The congregation raised a sum of money last evening to employ an attorney and proposes to take the case up against their new pastor, the Rev. W. S. Lowry, and several members of the board of trustees, for breaking in the church doors and taking possession of the building. These suits will be pushed forward at once. They were entered by Hiram Chinn, one of the trustees, but later withdrawn in the interest of harmony. Now the congregation has decided to fight the matter out and oust the Rev. Mr. Lowry.

CHILD CAUSED A FUSS.

Relatives Made Demonstration on Learning It Was Going to Italy.

The guardianship of a 3-year-old child almost caused a riot at Union station last night, when a relative objected to another taking the child from the city. The police were called upon to interfere and all parties concerned decided to allow Magistrate Stewart to adjust matters at Central police station this morning.

The child has been in charge of an aunt and uncle since the death of its mother. The relatives are Italians and live in Bedford avenue. After the departure of the couple with the child, another aunt of the child learned that it was to be taken to Italy, and summoning her friends she bore down on the railroad station in numbers and made a demonstration. The father of the child is employed at Connellsville and he has been telegraphed to appear before the magistrate this morning.

DEATH OF LYNCH GIRL NOT SOLVED

No Point Brought Out at Inquest to Show She Killed Herself.

STOMACH TO BE ANALYZED

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—With the beginning of the inquest today to determine whether Margaret Lynch, the girl found dead near the Greenfield cemetery, Freeport, took her own life or was the victim of foul play, it was announced that Edwin Lynch, a brother, had admitted being the author of the mysterious "John Franklin" letter received by the district attorney.

The first brief session of the inquest was held today at Lynnbrook, L. I., and at its conclusion not one new point had been brought out to show that the girl killed herself. The case was fraught with even more mystery than ever.

The district attorney instructed the coroner to have an analysis of the murdered girl's stomach made for traces of poison. Arrangements were also completed for handwriting comparisons of all the letters and notes in the case.

Remarkable as have been many of the official acts in the inquiry the opening of the inquest was the most remarkable. The case was set for 3 o'clock. At that time it was discovered that the authorities had present only one witness, an old woman, whose testimony showed absolutely nothing.

It has been announced that all of the witnesses except Oswald Maune and the members of the Lynch family would be present to testify. The district attorney declared that he had been in communication with Maune's attorney, who had promised that he would produce his client when wanted at the inquest. An adjournment was taken for a week.

END SESSION WITH BANQUET.

B. & O. Freight Men Finish Inspection of Pittsburgh District.

The semi-annual convention of freight officials of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad came to a close last night with a banquet at the Hotel Schenley. Yesterday the party visited Fairmont and the West Virginia coal regions for the purpose of more fully learning conditions in that district in order to provide against the possibility of another car famine such as compelled the mines to shut down last winter.

The result of the visit to this city during the convention will undoubtedly lead to better shipping facilities here, as a full and complete understanding of local needs and conditions were impressed upon the visitors. While the freight men have not the authority to change present arrangements it is within their province to make recommendations to their superiors which usually carry considerable weight.

The State college football squad, 30 strong, headed by Coach Golden and Capt Forkum, arrived from Bellefonte last night, and are quartered at the Seventh Avenue hotel. Coach Golden reports his players in first-class condition and ready to give the Washington county team a hard run for the honors this afternoon.

The report which has been sent broadcast from Washington that the players on the State eleven are much heavier than those of Wash.-Jeff. while in a measure true there is not the great difference that the Washington people would make the public believe. Captain and Fullback Forkum of the State team said last night that it would be a hard matter to size the teams up from the showing both made in the games against Yale and Princeton. He realizes that his team will have a hard proposition, but he is confident of victory.

State has a good team this year. It showed that in the games with Yale and University of Pennsylvania, but the contest with W. and J. counts for more from a State standpoint than do the matches with the eastern universities, owing to the intense rivalry between the two institutions. To have either Yale or Penn run up a big score might cause some disappointment to a State rooter, but nothing like the humiliation that would be brought about by a defeat in the game with W. and J.

The W. and J. team is due this morning. It will probably come in advance of the special train which is expected to bring a thousand or more Washington people to the game. Like Golden, Coach Seaman of W. and J. does not believe in having a brass band and an army of rooters with the team for half a day before an important game, and tries to keep the players as quiet as possible until the game starts. The shouters will arrive shortly after noon, and when they get in the W. and J. team will be on its way to the park.

The gates at Exposition park will be opened at 1:30, and the game will start at 3 o'clock. The officials have been selected, and there is no reason for any delay. Western University set a good example last week in starting on time, and the teams today should keep up the good work. The only thing to be decided today on the field will be the length of the halves.

W. U. P. will be well represented in the crowd tomorrow, and its delegates will pull for State. The feeling against W. and J. was increased yesterday by the discovery in a Washington paper of an article that misrepresented the local university. One of the assertions was that W. and J. did not owe W. U. P. anything for the use of the park today. The credit for the privilege of playing here was given to others. This claim made the Wups indignant, as they knew it would have been impossible for State and W. and J. to use Exposition park today without their consent. The article also asserts that W. U. P. will not have a good team next year. "If W. and J. thinks our team is not good why is it afraid to play us this season?" asked one W. U. P. man.

W. U. P. will have another reason for watching today's game closely. It will meet State here on Thanksgiving Day and will try today to get a line on State's style. The teams will lineup as follows:

W. and J.		State.
Hupp	L.E.	Barr
Roy	L.T.	Smith
Gibson	L.G.	White
Sutter	C.	Woodward
Stuart	R.G.	Moscript
Timmons	R.T.	Moorhead

Simmons or Skinner	R.H.	Forkum
Selp or Wright	F.B.	Subs—W. and J., Brickelsen, Logan, Springer, Morrison, Stoneman; State, Partridge, McGee, Leathers, Wray, Gotwals, Honhart.

FIGHT IT OUT TODAY.

H. C. Egan and A. L. Waite of Harvard to Decide the Finals.

HAMILTON, MASS., Oct. 21.—H. Chandler Egan, the amateur champion of the United States, and A. L. White, both members of the Harvard golf team, will play tomorrow to decide the inter-collegiate golf championship, they being the survivors of the semi-final round played today in a driving rainstorm over the links of the Myopia Hunt club. F. O. Reinhart of Princeton, the present champion, was defeated in the afternoon by H. Chandler Egan.

Despite the inclement weather, Chandler Egan and Reinhart played an excellent game, each player equaling bogey on the outward journey. On the return Reinhart's play fell off and Egan defeated him 3 up and 1 to play.

The Allegheny High school lost to the Allegheny Preps yesterday, 17 to 0. Preps have now won both games. High school was strengthened since the last game by McNair and Robbin, while Preps had the services of Worcester, who played a strong game.

High school kicked to the Preps., who in six minutes rushed the ball over the line, Tustin having the honor. Reiter kicked goal. In the second half the Preps kicked to Chatham, who came back 35 yards. High school then lost on downs. End runs and bucks and sent Tustin over for the second score. Reiter kicked goal. The Preps again kicked to High school, who made no gain. After a few gains Allegheny High school fumbled and Preps got it. Tustin, Fife and Reiter took the ball down and Fife went over. Baseball Men to Be Feasted and Shown the Sights of Gay New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—(Special.)—When the delegates of the National Association of Baseball leagues meet in this city they will be accorded a reception that has yet to be equalled in the history of baseball meetings in New York or any other city.

The Eastern league has taken upon itself the task of being the committee of entertainment. At the head of the league is Patrick T. Powers, who has always been foremost in providing for the comfort and the necessities of the "minor leaguers," and this year he has fairly surpassed himself.

In addition to banquets, a smoker and other amusements, the delegates are to be taken around New York on an automobile excursion and are also to be given a ride in special cars through the subway on the opening day. Incidentally, there will be plenty of business for the members of the association to transact. There are one or two cases in which the National commission, which governs the major leagues and the National association are at variance, and these matters will be adjusted in some manner that is almost certain to be satisfactory to both sides.

NEW GOLF CLUB.

McDonald Is the Latest and There Is a Promise of a Fine Course.

A new golf club has been organized at McDonald. Six holes have been laid out on the farm of John M. McDonald on the edge of the town, and by another season nine holes will be in play. For the present the golf played is on temporary greens. H. D. Miller, coach at the Brighton Country club, has taken charge of the making of the course.

The officers of the club are: President, Edward McDonald; secretary and treasurer, Dr. W. R. Dickson, and grounds committee, J. M. McDonald, Frank Crooks and Dr. W. L. Scott. The membership of the club is now 30, but by next year this number will be materially increased.

Today's local golf schedule:

Allegheny Country club—Finals for the president's cup and handicap for a cup also offered by President Harry Darlington.

Oakmont Country club—W. P. G. A. team match with Pittsburgh Field club. Also 18-hole handicap for a cup offered by C. A. Verner, the ownership to be decided by points.

Pittsburgh Golf club—Second preliminary round in competition for the Laughlin cup for men.

BIG PRICE FOR HORSE.

William Simpson Pays $50,000 for McKinney, Sire of Sweet Marie.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—(Special.)—William Simpson of this city, proprietor of the Empire City stud, at Cuba, N. Y., has just bought McKinney, 2:11¾, sire of the season's greatest trotting mare, Sweet Marie, 2:04¾, paying $50,000 to Gentry Bros. of Muncie, Ind. With two exceptions this is the highest price ever paid for a harness horse. Arion III., 2:07¾, and Axtell III., 2:12, brought $125,000 and $105,000 respectively in the boom days, a dozen or more years ago. Sixty thousand dollars has also been refused for Dan Patch.

Only a few weeks ago an offer of $20,000 for Sweet Marie from a New Yorker who wanted the mare merely for pleasure driving was refused.

WINN ELECTED CAPTAIN OF EAST LIBERTY ELEVEN

McCandless, who played fullback, retired because his parents refuse to allow him to play. Winn, who played left tackle, will go to fullback. East Liberty will play the Pittsburgh High school next Friday at Friendship park.

Allegheny Enters a Denial.

MEADVILLE, PA., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—Allegheny wishes to refute the claim made by Grove City in The Gazette Friday regarding the game played by the two teams last Wednesday. The trouble was the result of the referee trying to penalize Allegheny for an off-side play. The visitors were shown the rule regarding the point, but were not willing to abide by the rule book. Instead of Allegheny refusing to play, as Grove City claims, Grove City left the field when the official ordered play. It is thought here that Grove City saw that the game was about lost and would rather forfeit than be defeated. Allegheny had the ball on Grove City's 10-yard line when the game ended, and had been gaining steadily from the time she received the kick-off.

BIG ELEVENS HAVE HARD GAMES TODAY

Princeton Oracle Predicts That Yale Will Win Annual Contest by 11 to 5.

RED AND BLUE VERY HOPEFUL

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

When the managers of the big football teams arranged their schedules earlier in the year, the games planned for today were thought to be the first hard tests of the season. How badly the plans of the executive departments were upset is now football history. None the less, however, will the contests to be played on the last day of the week prove a trying ordeal for several of the "Big Six" in pigskindom. Columbia is called upon to meet Pennsylvania; Yale faces the fast and aggressive cadets at West Point and Harvard will lineup against the tricky redmen from Carlisle. Princeton and Cornell are apparently going to escape hard and trying gridiron struggles for another week, for each has an opponent which should be defeated without great effort.

Princeton.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—"Hell Devil" Skillman, Princeton's prophetic dean of alcoholic dreams, whose prophecies on the results of the Yale game, by reason of their uniform success, have come to be regarded by the sons of Nassau with superstitious fear, has brought the hopes of the Tigers to the ground with a dull, sickening thud. Last year, after his annual Yale trance, he foretold to Capt. Dewitt that the score would be 11 to 6 and that bulldog soup would be plentiful in Tigerland. The prophecy was fulfilled, and the fame of "Hell Devil" Skillman greatly augmented thereby.

Today the oracle again spoke, but in words direful to Tigers' ears. The die is cast, the fates are after Princeton with a thick stick. The score of the coming game with Yale will be 11 to 5. In spite of the probability of defeat, however, and though the lovers of the orange and black are demanding odds of 3 to 1 from Yale, the Tiger team still works desperately, living in the hope that after all the Tiger may at least scratch the bulldog's ears when the great day comes.

On account of tomorrow's game with Lehigh, the Tigers confined themselves this afternoon to a long signal practice, followed by a very light scrimmage. A good deal of attention was given to the blocking of kicks by the varsity on the scrubs' attempts to kick field goals, after which the play was reversed. But in spite of the great attention given to the work it was discouraging in the last degree, particularly as Fleming's tenderness in this important specialty appears hopeless.

Yale.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—Yale will play her first out-of-town game tomorrow with the cadets of West Point. The Yale eleven left early this evening for New York and will spend tonight in Gotham. Realizing that the game will be a hard proposition for the eleven, the coaches today held only signal practice, in secret practice only the new plays which have been worked behind closed gates this week were run through. At dinner tonight the players were admonished by the coaches that they will face the real thing in both halves tomorrow and that no alibis will hold in case of failure to make good. Admittedly there is fear that West Point may score. Yale will play as follows, the back field to be altered in the second half as indicated:

Cornell.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—Unexpectedly and for the first time this season the gates of Percy field were closed today to the hundreds of students who have been daily watching the practice of the Cornell varsity football eleven. The drill behind closed doors was not materially different from that which has been held in public for the last three weeks. The varsity were run through the usual preliminaries and then the eleven lined up in its new order of yesterday and ran through signals for some time. Later a half-hour scrimmage was held, which took on the appearance of a real game. It is not thought that tomorrow's game with Franklin and Marshall will be much of a contest.

U. of P.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—Penn's football eleven practiced its formation for the Columbia game this afternoon behind closed gates on Franklin field. There was no lineup with the scrub in this last drill before the contest of tomorrow, but the first eleven ran through the signals, while the substitutes formed a second team, which also practiced the formations.

The players slid through the plays with a lack of form that showed how sadly they feel the need of wet weather practice. The opinion of the critics favors Penn in the game tomorrow. They say that Stevenson is enough in himself to turn the scale and that Reynolds' punting will be a great factor, while Columbia line will hardly be able to get at him on a wet field. Penn's lineup will be: Left end, Drake; left tackle, Bucklewiez; left guard, Piekarski; center, Torrey (captain), right guard, Zelgler or Kase; right tackle, Lanson; right end, Sinkler or Hollenbeck; quarterback, Stevenson; left halfback, Reynolds; right halfback, Greene; fullback, Smith.

Harvard.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—Harvard meets the Carlisle Indians at football on Soldiers' field tomorrow afternoon, and there is grave fear in Cambridge that Harvard's goal line will be crossed for the first time this year. The Indians are pretty confident that they are going to score, and everything is in their favor for such a performance. The tricky play will have a good chance to get in its best work tomorrow, as Harvard will have two men on the ends who have had none too much experience at the position. Filley and Leary, the men who played at West Point, will be in tomorrow's game. Both were green last Saturday and they have had no experience to speak of this week.

Today's scrimmage was devoted almost entirely to a kicking game, and it was pretty poor at that. There were but two rushes during the entire game. The varsity substitutes were played against the varsity today instead of the second eleven, and the understudies defeated the regulars by McFadden's run for a touchdown from the 30-yard line after he gathered the ball in on Shurtleff's blocking of Leary's punt.

VERY DOUBTFUL STORY.

Report That Hans Wagner Will Play Ball This Winter Denied by President Dreyfuss.

SEATTLE, WASH., Oct. 21.—James Morley, manager of the Los Angeles Pacific Coast league team, has closed with Hans Wagner of the Pittsburgh Nationals, Frank Chance of the Chicago Nationals and Christy Mathewson of the New York Nationals. Chance and Wagner have already been signed for the remainder of the season, and a telegram received today says that Mathewson has sent his terms and that they will be accepted by Morley.

President Dreyfuss of the Pittsburgh club stated last night that he doubted the truth of the above report so far as Hans Wagner is concerned. While Wagner is at liberty to play ball all winter if he is so inclined, Mr. Dreyfuss knew that Hans had no such intentions, as he needed a rest and had made arrangements to go to Mt. Clemens with Deacon Phillippe to spend a month at that resort, in order to boil the rheumatism out of his shoulder and arm.

Pastimes Have Hard Game.

Pastimes will play the Edgar Thomson team at Braddock this afternoon. It will probably be one of the hardest games of the season. Although they expect to be handicapped by the absence of several players, the boys hope to come home with another victory. The team will meet at Erin street and Wylie avenue, and the following players will report at 12:45: McElligott, Barckley, Cook, McCormick, Goldman, Blair, DeWitt, Coleridge, Butler, Barbin, Conwell, McCloy, Lyons and Eddie Burke.

AMONG THE PASSERS.

Thursday night Glenshaw defeated the East Liberty team, 28 to 17.

In Niles' hall at Beltzhoover tonight the Hillsdales and Leitheads will open their season. The first game will be called at 8 o'clock sharp and will be between the Hillsdales and Lafayettes.

The Anteur A. A. will hold regular practice every Saturday afternoon at the California avenue gymnasium at 2 o'clock. The following players will report: Bothwell, Boyd, Cumming, Ireland, McCray, Morton and Thompson.

SEATS SOLD VERY FAST.

Almost $4,000 Realized for Pittsburgh Orchestra Yesterday, Making a Sum Total of Nearly $12,000.

Nearly $4,000 was added to the total in the sale of the seats for the Pittsburgh Orchestra season during the public sale conducted at Hamilton hall, Wood street, yesterday. The long line in waiting, headed by the six boys who had been in their places for six days and nights, was disposed of shortly after 9 o'clock yesterday morning.

As usual, the first in line secured the best seats remaining from the auction sale held on Thursday, and when the last applicant was waited upon last evening a total of nearly $12,000 was recorded in the sale of seats. This is far in excess of any previous season. The sale continues until Monday evening and indications are that few if any seats will be unsold.

All disputes are to be settled by arbitration.

The closed shop is conceded by the employers, who have also granted an increase in wages from 37½ cents to 40 cents an hour, 44 hours per week, during May, June, July and August, and 48 hours a week during the rest of the year.

SOME GOOD RACING.

Butler Enjoyed Its First Real Meet in Twenty Years.

WILL DEFEND HIS TITLE.

Barney Oldfield Promises to Do Some Fast Going.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—(Special.)—Barney Oldfield will endeavor to show tomorrow at Brighton Beach that he can drive an automobile faster than any other of his seven opponents in the race for the American championship. This will be Oldfield's first appearance in the east this year, and he has come on from the west for the special purpose of giving some of his ambitious eastern operators the opportunity to wrest the speed laurels from him. That it will be a test of daring verging on recklessness goes without saying, for Oldfield is determined to uphold his reputation.

Oldfield will also give a special 10-mile exhibition against the present record of 9:13, and as the track promises to be very fast and hard from today's rain, it should be an ideal circuit for fast turns. It is hazardous sport speeding on mile tracks, but all those who are entered are noted for their daring.

NO FAITH IN RUMOR.

Michigan Knows Nothing of Game With Princeton This Fall.

ANN ARBOR, MICH., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—Rumor of a Michigan-Princeton game reached he fever point at Michigan today after a lay's rain waiting for a certain much heralded Mr. Reiter of Princeton, to arrive, and after every athletic authority at Michigan had declared himself completely ignorant of any intention on Princeton's part to offer Michigan a football game the day's rumors were handed as a great bugaboo. That there is such a person as Mr. Reiter, a Princeton alumnus, is the extent of Michigan's information.

As a matter of fact this Princeton game story is two days old at Michigan. It first came out from Cincinnati, where Reiter was, and where he merely said that he was going to ask his friends in control of athletics at Princeton if they could not offer Michigan a Thanksgiving game.

PREPARED FOR WORST.

Captain Brown Named His Brother as His Turf Partner.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—(Special.)—Before going to the hospital to be operated upon Capt. S. S. Brown registered with the Jockey club a partnership in his horses in training, and all those that have in any way an interest in the Produce stakes to be run in the next three seasons. His brother, W. Harry Brown, was named in the partnership as having a one-quarter interest in the horses.

Capt. Brown, who is at the Post Graduate hospital, is recovering nicely from the operation, and his physicians do not anticipate any serious results.

Wasn't Much of a Fire.

The Pennsylvania Company officials who have been making an inspection of the lines returned yesterday from the trip, and the officials of the divisions farther west returned to their homes at night. A report reached Pittsburgh from Beaver Falls that a car of the inspection train caught fire and the officials in the car were nearly suffocated. An officer of the company said last night that somebody had dropped a lighted cigar on a cushion, but put out the resulting fire with his hand.

Pittsburgh High school won a loosly played game from the Washington (Pa.) high school eleven yesterday afternoon at Friendship park 15 to 0. The game was played in 20 and 15-minute halves, but the crowd was kept in the park until darkness began to appear, due principally to protests on Washington using Booher, who is claimed to be a sophomore in W. and J. college.

Capt. Wallace Johns of Pittsburgh refused to let Booher in the game at the start, and Washington agreed to keep him out after a long kick had taken place. Before the second half started Booher got on the field to take Ward's place at right half. A kick of one-half hour ensued, and it was only after the watch had been held on Washington that Booher was removed.

Washington played poor football and Pittsburgh was not much better. The Washington backfield men handled punts miserably, and Pittsburgh secured two touchdowns in consequence.

Washington kicked off at the start, and on the first lineup Dunc. Worrell was given the ball. Worrell smashed through Washington's right tackle and end and got through the line. He bowled over two tacklers himself and ran down the field for 80 yards and a touchdown. This run was the only spectacular play of the game. Pittsburgh fumbled on its 10-yard line later and Washington secured the ball and then lost it in the same way. W. Johns getting the ball. On the 40-yard line McAllister punted, but Miller fumbled on his 10-yard line and Verner got the ball. Verner was sent over for the second touchdown.

In the second half Washington fumbled on its 14-yard line and W. Johns got the ball. Greer Orr was shoved through the line for the third touchdown. Verner missed all three goals.

Verner, at left end, tackled well and Pfeffer, left half, made most of Pittsburgh's gains by line bucks, while Washington was attempting a delayed pass in the second half Verner ran into Forsythe and knocked him out. Forsythe was taken to the dressing room unconscious, but recovered in 5 minutes. Miller finished the game at quarter. After the third touchdown Pittsburgh used substitutes and Washington gained some ground. The lineup:

MUSIC LOVERS GOLD BRICKED

The "Worst Ever" Served Up to Small Audience at Carnegie Music Hall Last Night.

PUBLIC WAS FLIM-FLAMMED

The much-heralded "Mme. Nina David, the famous coloratura soprano, with a select troupe of assistant artists"—the advance notices are quoted—appeared at the Pittsburgh Carnegie music hall last evening in a long and varied program. Fully two-thirds of the audience, which was not large, was there on complimentary passes and before the alleged concert had proceeded very far was heartily ashamed of the fact. Those who paid the price—$2 down stairs—were righteously indignant. They had a right to be. It was the worst "gold brick" Pittsburgh amusement seekers and music lovers have ever been given. A riot would have been justified. Such performances as that of last night given in some parts of the country furnish the motive power for the formation of a rail-riding party.

Added to all the other "fierce" things of the evening was the fact that the hall was exceedingly cold and draughty, making physical comfort a thing out of the question. Those who have the management of this beautiful music hall will do well not to permit a repetition of anything such as was offered last night, else the hall will soon fall into disrepute and deservedly so, too.

Without question the concert of last evening was the most perfect flim-flam game ever perpetrated on the people of Pittsburgh. The company, with the possible exception of the violinist and the 'cello player, were a set of the veriest amateurs. The 'cellist, it may be noted in passing, offered Sir Arthur Sullivan's maudlin melody, "The Lost Chord," as an encore, which puts him at once in a class by himself.

The contralto, Miss Elaine de Sellem, a modest maid of some 42 winters, sang the magnificent "Samson and Delilah" aria, "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," with a draggy tempo, a faulty tone production and an expression which was intended to be highly emotional and succeeded in being distinctly syrupy. In some notes her voice was not so bad, but so far from being a "finished artist," her performance would hardly do credit to a first-year voice pupil.

The tenor, George W. Jenkins, appeared in the second half of the program to sing Gounod's "Lend Me Thine Aid" from the "Queen of Sheba," and it was evident from the first that he had mistaken the situation. His proper sphere would be to sing topical songs of the "Father, Don't Beat Mother With Your Peg Leg Any More" type, while the cinematograph throws the pictures on the screen. As a sample of pure trash, the song sung by Jenkins for an encore has seldom been excelled. It is to the credit of the audience that they covered their faces with their programs and laughed outright at its absurdity.

But the prima donna! All the faults of the supporting troupe might have been excused had Madame David in the least fulfilled the high expectations which had been raised concerning her. It was announced as her American debut. It certainly ought to be her finish. The only conclusion to be drawn is that she must have money and thinks she can sing. She may be appreciated somewhere, but it would be interesting to know where. She is absolutely without voice. Her attempts to execute the trills and roulades of the "Infelice Sconsolata" from Mozart's "Magic Flute" were pitiable. If one turned one's eyes away it was as if one heard a child of ten attempting sight reading. Moreover, Madame David seems to be absolutely tone deaf—as much so as Trilby unhypnotized. She hit the right note at the right time exactly twice during that long recitative and aria, by actual count. At first her remarkable exhibition was thought to be extreme nervousness, caused by stage fright over her first appearance. When she continued to sing, however, in her peculiar, untrained and feeble voice, wonder gave way to ridicule and at the conclusion of her first number almost half the audience left the hall in disgust.

Just what Robert Grau means by playing "bunco games" on the Pittsburgh public in this fashion is not yet determined. Mr. Kaufman, the violinist, avers that he was engaged through a reputable agency for this concert, and knew nothing of the artistic merits—or rather demerits of his fellow performers. It is an outrage that this state of affairs should exist. Musical pretenders cannot be foisted on the Pittsburgh public with impunity, no matter what their backing may be, and the sooner managers realize this the sooner we shall be spared the pain and shame of witnessing such a fiasco as last evening's concert.

The local management claims that it was entirely ignorant of the true state of affairs, and deplores it as much, if not more, than those who witnessed it.

Wright Upholds Coal Company.

WILKESBARRE, PA., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—Umpire Carroll D. Wright today decided the case of the Northern Anthracite Coal Company against the miners. They contended the company refused to pay the sliding scale increase as ordered by the strike commission. The company admitted this and claimed it was not liable because, not being in the direct anthracite field, and mining semi-bituminous coal, its coal did not go to tidewater.

WOMEN DELEGATES AT HISTORIC SPOTS

SPECIAL TELEGRAM FROM
Annie R. Stratton, Staff Correspondent.

LANCASTER, PA., Oct. 21.—The club women attending the meeting of the state federation of women's clubs spent today in short trips to various historic places in and about Lancaster. A number left for home last evening, some went this afternoon and others will remain until tomorrow or Monday.

This morning a party of Pittsburgh women went to Ephrata, the community established by the German religious sect of Seventh Day Baptists, about 17 miles out from the city. The visit to the cloisters of this people was varied on the return by a trolley wreck, in which, however, no one was injured. Some were badly frightened.

MISS YETTA DAUGHTEN,
Columbian Council Jewish Women.

The community which was dying out because of few members, is now beginning to pick up again and the 100 acres owned by the church and managed by trustees are in a prosperous condition.

The club women visited also the cemetery where a monument was erected two years ago to the memory of 600 soldiers who were wounded in the battle of Brandywine and were brought to Ephrata, where they were nursed by the brothers and sisters of the religious society. Excursions were also made to Wheatland, the home of James Buchanan, the fifteenth president of the United States, and to the house where, in 1765, Robert Fulton, the inventor of the steamboat, was born.

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—The stage of the river at 6 o'clock this evening was 4.4 feet and stationary. Weather, raining and cooler. Today's departures were: Katie Mae, Portsmouth, and Kanawha, Louisville. The elevator of the Kanawha Coal Company has been sold to the United Coal Company of Pittsburgh. Clifford Budd will be married on Wednesday evening to a belle of Cincinnati. After the marriage they will make their home in Pittsburgh. Henry McElvenny, a veteran riverman, died at his home in the East End of heart failure late last night. He was 70 years old and was connected with the river interests all of his life. IMPROVEMENT MEETING.

Secretary of Ohio River Association Here Working Up Enthusiasm.

The stage of water at Davis Island dam at 9 o'clock last night was 2.7 feet, and the river was stationary.

Secretary John M. Williams of the Ohio River Improvement association, is here from Cincinnati. He is working up enthusiasm for the convention of the association, to be held in Huntington, W. Va., November 16, 17 and 18. Mr. Williams says there is little difficulty in getting up an interest this year. The work in the Ohio river near home has spurred up the business men and manufacturers of this city to the importance of this work, and they are thoroughly alive to its necessities. There is every indication that the convention this year will be a big one and a large number of men from this city have promised to be in attendance.

Orders have been issued to all boats on the river to cut down their steam pressure to 140 pounds. This order is necessitated by the fact that the low water has caused a great deal of scale to form in boilers. The rivers are full of acid, which has a corroding effect on metals. No relief can be expected until high water comes along and thoroughly scours the beds of the stream.

Capt. Sharpe Packer will leave today for Chattanooga, where he will make his future home. Capt. Packer is one of the old-timers. He was a captain for W. W. O'Neill in the days gone by, and retired 10 or 15 years ago. He has recently returned from the Knights Templar conclave at San Francisco. While in Oregon and Washington he made a number of pictures with his camera. Several photographs of boats on the Willamette river have been presented by him to Harbor 26.

Major W. L. Sibert and Capts. John Moren and W. H. Crump made a trip to Merriman yesterday to look over the site of the proposed fence which is to be constructed there this fall.

The H. B. Dilworth has had her boilers overhauled and a lot of new tubes placed and is now back in commission. The Mayflower will not get to the Manchester docks until some day next week, the R. L. Aubrey being still on the ways there.

Oil Land Dispute Settled.

BEAVER, PA., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—The final hearing was to have been held today in the case of Riley et al. vs. the Crown Petroleum Company over oil lands said to be worth $1,000,000, but a settlement was effected. The court is to appoint a receiver with authority to drill wells to offset the wells of either party. The court will fix the bond of the receiver.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus or Falling of Womb, which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

Very often a married woman or young girl does not know who to turn to for advice in circumstances where she dislikes to talk with the family physician about delicate matters. At such times write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., for free consultation and advice, and the same will be held as sacredly confidential. It is foolish to consult women friends or persons without medical training.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription contains no alcohol, is entirely vegetable and was the first exclusively woman's tonic on the market—it has sold more largely in the past third of a century than any other medicine for women.

All other compounds intended for women only are made with alcohol, or alcohol is a large component—this alcohol injures the nerves. The little red corpuscles of the blood are shrunken by alcohol. All such compounds, therefore, do harm.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. Use them with the "Favorite Prescription" when a pill is required. One is a laxative, two, a mild cathartic.

ADMITS KILLING PATIENTS IN X-RAY TREATMENT

Beaver Physician Declared That Sufferers Would Have Died Nevertheless. Doctors More Cautious Now.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BEAVER, PA., Oct. 21.—In an address before the Men's club of the First Presbyterian church on the subject of the use of the X-ray, tonight, Dr. George C. Johnston made the statement that he had killed several patients by subjecting them to the X-ray in treating them for cancer, but said the patients would have died soon if they had not been treated. The deaths were the result of ignorance regarding the rays. In the treatment of cancer, he said, the growth is exposed to the rays, which destroy the cancerous tissue rapidly. The tissue thus killed must be carried off by the blood.

In his early investigations, the doctor said he had allowed too long an exposure, thus killing more tissue than the blood could carry off and causing Bright's disease and death. Now the exposures are short and sometimes the treatment extends over a period of three months. Dr. Johnston said he could not yet say whether the X-rays would permanently cure cancer. If in 15 years the disease does not return he would pronounce the patient cured.

Flooded Mine May Be Abandoned.

SCRANTON, PA., Oct. 21.—Mine cave-ins at Duryea today caused a rise in the Lackawanna river. The flood poured into the workings of the Hallstead mine and damaged much surface near the Polish Catholic church. A score of houses also suffered damage. The mine was flooded during the strike of 1902 from similar causes and the water had just been pumped out preparatory to getting the mine ready to operate. It may now be wholly abandoned.

JOHNSTOWN, PA., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—William Ott, Jr., the 7-year-old son of William Ott of Pindleton, shot and almost instantly killed his 12-year-old sister at the home of his parents in this county yesterday evening. The Ott lad, wandering through his father's barn, discovered a 32-caliber target rifle. He took it to the kitchen, and pointing it at his sister said, playfully: "I'll shoot you, Ruby." Then he pulled the trigger. The ball ploughed through the girl's head. She died an hour later.

DEATH IS WINNER IN A RACE AGAINST TIME

BUCYRUS, O., Oct. 2.—(Special.)—Death won in a race of 5,000 miles, though a son, who is speeding from South America, is unaware that his mother is dead. John Hopley, Jr., United States consul at Montevideo, Uruguay, left there two weeks ago. On account of the war in Uruguay an earlier leave of absence was denied him, although the condition of his mother has been critical since the death of his father, five months ago. Mrs. Hopley died yesterday. The son will not reach here until next week. Mrs. Hopley was the wife of the late John Hopley, a newspaper writer. She was 77 years old.

BULL MOVEMENT RESUMED IN NEW YORK STOCKS

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The upward movement in the New York stock market was resumed yesterday, the volume of dealings approximated the largest, and in numerous instances prices reached a new high level. There have been many surprising features attending this movement, but none has been more surprising than the ability of the market to absorb enormous blocks of stocks sold to take profits.

The evidence of competitive buying in Ontario & Western at one time threatened to greatly disturb the bull leaders. London had responded to the advance on this side at the close on Thursday, and yesterday sent prices 1 to 1½ per cent higher for Ontario & Western and some of the other low-priced issues which may become attractive to the financiers who control larger systems. For a time at the opening the market was dominated by the excitement in Ontario & Western. In the early part of the afternoon there was another period of about 10 minutes during which the dealings were confined almost exclusively to this stock, and there appeared to be no orders under 1,000-share blocks and as high as 3,000-share blocks. During this brief period something like 40,000 shares changed hands, and the total for the day was 251,700 shares, out of 1,927,500 shares for all stocks. There was no further definite news regarding the movement, except a repetition of the report that the New York & New Haven had acquired control of the road and would make an official announcement as to terms next week.

Inasmuch as U. S. Steel issues have been the leaders of the market for so long a time, and the day is near at hand when the statement of earnings for the quarter and unfilled orders on hand will be made public, this group again attracted much attention, although they by no means lead in the amount of dealings. Steel common opened firmer and advanced to 21¼, and the preferred, after reacting to 80½, rallied to 82¼. On this advance there was heavy profit-taking and Pittsburgh was credited with being a big seller of the preferred. The other iron and steel stocks displayed much irregularity. Pressed Steel Car common broke from 40½ to 38, on rumors that the dividend might be suspended, but it recovered to 40¼ bid at the close. American locomotive common was strong and higher, advancing to 29¾, and closing at 29½ bid. Amalgamated Copper was moderately active within a one-point range, but the tone was rather heavy. U. S. Leather common rallied to 13¾, and Peoples Gas was very strong, advancing to 106¾.

The traction stocks sold off slightly in the early part of the day, but became strong and advanced sharply. Metropolitan Street Railway touching 130⅝. Brooklyn Rapid Transit advanced to 69½, and on the curb Interborough closed 1 per cent higher at 161 bid.

Among the stocks which during the afternoon reached new high prices were Baltimore & Ohio, Reading, Atchison, the Missouri, Kansas & Texas issues and Rock Island. The latter rose to 24¼, on very large transactions and closed at the top. Baltimore & Ohio issued a good report for the month of September, and the annual report of Union Pacific, showing about 11 per cent earned for the common stock, was a factor in advancing the latter to the previous high level on this movement.

At the close the only prominent stocks to show net losses for the day were Amalgamated Copper, Sugar and U. S. Steel common. On the other hand, the railroads closed at gains ranging from small fractions to 2½ per cent for Ontario & Western, 2 per cent for Reading, 2¼ per cent for Rock Island, and so on through the list.

The preliminary returns of the movement of currency during the week indicate small change as to cash holdings, but inasmuch as the gain last week did not appear, owing to the average system of reporting changes in the various items, it is thought that an increase will appear in today's bank statement, with possibly a further reduction in loans.

The most pronounced feature of the local stock market was the strong rally in Crucible Steel preferred. Stockholders who had attended the annual meeting returned to the city in a much more cheerful mind than when they went away, and confident opinions were expressed that the company would have no difficulty in placing all the bonds required to place it in easy financial position. The stock opened firm and unchanged at 39½ and advanced rapidly until it reached 42. At this point there was some profit-taking which caused a reaction to 41½, but the close was firm at 41¼ bid, a net gain of 2 per cent. The common stock recovered to 6½. All the Coal issues closed a shade lower for the day and were less active than for some time past. National Fire Proofing common and preferred were stronger and closed ½ point higher. Westinghouse Electric advanced to 80½, reacted to 85¾, and closed at 85¼ bid. Pittsburgh Plate Glass was moderately active at 130½ to 131, and closed ½ per cent lower for the day. There was a better demand for bank and trust company stocks than for some time past, and prices were firm and higher.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The buying of Crucible Steel preferred took the street somewhat by surprise yesterday. At the opening of the market there were some good sized selling orders in the hands of brokers, but when the demand developed these orders were withdrawn. It was thought that some of the buying was for the purpose of covering shorts, and part for the purpose of replacing stock sold just before the publication of the annual report. It was the expectation of some traders that the price would recede to at least 35 when the annual report came out, but the buying on the decline Thursday afternoon and the better feeling produced yesterday by interviews with stockholders who had attended the annual meeting, caused comparison to be made between Crucible Steel preferred, on which 7 per cent dividends have already accumulated, and the common shares of other industrial stocks, like United States Steel common. The comparison was favorable to Crucible preferred and probably led to some of the buying of the latter.

The coal stocks were rather neglected yesterday, less than 200 shares Pittsburgh Coal preferred changing hands all day. The stock rallied to 72¼, reacted to 71¼ and closed at 71⅝ bid. The common stock rallied to 17⅛, but closed offered at 16⅞. River Coal preferred declined to 22 and closed at that price bid.

Westinghouse Electric was dull but strong at the opening and rather heavy at the close. Airbrake was nominally quoted at 130 bid, and Switch and Signal was entirely neglected. Improvement in railroad earnings and business and the placing of car orders has led to talk that Airbrake ought to rally with the rest of the market.

There is some talk among brokers of abolishing the tri-weekly bank calls and having an open daily market for bank stocks. Private transactions in this class of stocks are probably several times as large as those which are posted on the exchange. Under the present ruling no sale of bank stock is posted if it occurs at any time except during the 30-minute session on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Yesterday after the hour for holding the call 20 shares Pittsburgh Trust changed hands at 410, but no record was made of the transaction. Some of the members of the exchange, who advocated the present restrictive market, now say that conditions have changed to such a degree that a daily market for bank stocks is warranted. There is scarcely a remote probability of a revival of speculation in this class of shares.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass held its recent advance well, 450 shares changing hands at 131 to 130¾. United States Glass was slightly lower at 48 bid, 49¾ asked.

Philadelphia Company common was offered at 42¼ and closed without bid. The preferred stock was not mentioned on the local board.

"I believe that the big play of the future in United States Steel will be in the common stock," remarked a Fourth avenue man yesterday. "As the condition of the industry improves and the management strengthens the financial position of the company by the accumulation of an ample surplus fund, the preferred stock will gradually get into the hands of investors, or at least out of the hands of the speculators, and the common stock will then become the favorite of speculation. At the present market price it requires about $1 25 a share to carry Steel common, or say $6 25 to carry it for five years. That would make the stock stand the purchaser in 1909 between 27 and 28. In five years it can easily have acquired an intrinsic value of 100, and between 30 and 100 there will be the most active speculation ever witnessed. I know it is a long look ahead, but I know people who five years ago bought Atchison and Reading common at one-fifth their present market value, when they looked less attractive than Steel common today."

Commission houses and prominent professional traders were buyers of Reading, Rock Island and Pennsylvania in blocks ranging from 5,000 to 25,000 shares each. This kind of buying does not represent the average public trader.

Wall street was confident that Pittsburgh and Chicago were heavy sellers of United States Steel preferred, but was not so certain as to the buyer. The market certainly displayed wonderful absorbing powers.

Denials of any immediate traction deal failed to check the buoyant speculation in those issues. Metropolitan Street Railway rose 3½ and Manhattan 3 per cent.

The gross earnings from traffic of the Baltimore & Ohio company for September, 1904, including the Baltimore & Ohio, the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern, Ohio River railroad, West Virginia Short Line, Ripley & Mill Creek Valley, Pittsburg, Lisbon & Western, Pittsburgh, Painesville & Fairport, Pittsburgh, Cleveland & Toledo and the Pittsburgh Junction were $6,045,760, an increase of $20,691 when compared with September, 1903. The expenses were $4,530,299, a decrease of $88,760, and the net earnings from traffic were $2,518,461, an increase of $108,668.

The Amalgamated Copper dividend is payable November 28, to stock of record November 27.

H. B. Claflin directors have declared the regular quarterly dividends of 1¼ per cent on the first preferred stock and 1¼ per cent on the second preferred stock, both payable November 1.

The annual report of the Mergenthaler Linotype Company for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1904, shows net earnings equal to 24.8 per cent on the $10,000,000 stock, compared with 23.2 per cent in 1903, 18.9 per cent in 1902 and 20.8 per cent in 1901. The company paid 18 per cent dividends.

The tide of the New York market was so strong yesterday that the room traders became very bold in the operations and dealt in practically unlimited amounts of the violently active stocks. The dimension of such operation is indicated by the bid made during the spurt in Pennsylvania for any part of 50,000 shares at 157½. This kind of trading is made on quick turns for very small price changes, and the trader is in and out of the market many times on a movement, thus adding enormously to the aggregate of the total dealings without perhaps effecting any actual transfer of holdings at all.

The belief that a contract for transfer of control of Ontario & Western to New Haven had been made was the principal influence on the market. The terms of the contract remained matter of surmise and left room for the astonishing speculation in the stock. It was assumed that the terms offered to the majority interest would be extended to all holders of the stock, and the rumors of the terms pointed to prices well above the market or to a dividend guarantee that would be equivalent to a substantial enhancement in the value of the holdings.

SOUTH SIDE SALE COMES TO $38,000

Property at Carson and Thirteenth Streets Bought by Local Business Man.

The first sale reported from the South Side for some time is that of the property at the southeast corner of Carson and Thirteenth streets. It belonged to the estate of A. Windinger, and the buyer is a South Side business man. The lot measures 40x90 feet and is improved with two three-story brick buildings occupied as stores and houses. These rent for about $3,000 a year. The price paid approximates $38,000, which figures at the rate of $950 a foot for the Carson street frontage.

Theodore N. Barnsdall has secured title to the Ralph M. Weaver property on the south side of Third avenue for $81,000. The lot is in two parcels, measuring 22.5x80 feet and 27x70 feet, and is improved with a three-story brick building.

Bids are being taken and the contract will be awarded in a few days for 30 houses to be built in Singer street, in the Blackadore plan in the Twenty-first ward. The property comes up to the Penn township line and is only 10 minutes' walk from the Frankstown avenue car line. By the extension of that thoroughfare and the improvements to the street the vacant frontage near the city limits is becoming more desirable for house building and several smaller projects have already been announced for the same vicinity. The houses now planned will be four-room frame dwellings with bath and will cost $1,250 each.

C. W. Houston has started excavating for a $30,000 apartment house which will be built from plans by Architect W. A. Thomas. The building will be three stories high and will contain eight apartments of five rooms and bath each. It will face in Callowhill street, near 36. Clair street, Nineteenth ward, and will adjoin another large apartment house owned by Mr. Houston.

Architect Thomas will start work next week on another three-story apartment building which he will erect for himself in Dilbridge street, near Fifth avenue and adjoining the Conservatory of Music property. The building will cost about $35,000 and will contain 15 suites. All contracts will be sub-let.

The same architect let the contract to George Spoerlein for a four-story brick building to be erected at 1906 Bedford avenue by John B. Page at a cost of $15,000. He also has plans for raising and remodeling two houses in Penn avenue near Negley avenue for A. McPherson to cost $7,500.

Architects Allison & Allison have awarded the contract through the county auditor to E. M. Long & Son of Cadiz, O., for the new Harrison county infirmary building to be erected two miles west of Cadiz at a cost of $75,000.

A report has been in circulation the last few days that E. M. O'Neil and Frank McCann were about to build a $200,000 hotel at the northeast corner of Federal street and River avenue, Allegheny, on a site 80x150 feet. Rumor also had it these men had bought the property a short time ago from the Dallett heirs of Philadelphia, and that plans for the big hotel were in the hands of C. C. Wager of the Union Realty Company. Upon investigation yesterday it was learned that the report was unfounded. The property changed hands Mr. Wager said that the proposition to build a hotel on the lot has been under advisement for some time, but no definite plans have been submitted to the owners. The building, now known as the Hotel Harvey, is occupied by A. F. Harvey, who has a five-year lease on it.

Jacob Levy is the buyer of the old Colliseum property in Butler and Forty-fourth streets, the sale of which was mentioned in The Gazette yesterday. The present deal was on a cash basis, the price being $21,000. Thomas Beatty, the seller, secured the property from Frank McCann over a year ago, taking it at a valuation of $40,000 in an exchange deal for the Hotel Metropole in lower Fourth avenue. The lot is 120x100 feet and is improved with a two-story brick building used for store and hall purposes.

The buyer of the Mason property at 420-424 First avenue, which was sold recently by Harry Davis for $82,500, proves to have been Harvey H. Smith of the Smith-Wehner Lithographing Company. The lot is 60x80 feet at the northeast corner of First avenue and Cherry alley and will be improved with a lithographing plant to cost at least $60,000.

The Rural club of Brushton proposes to build a large club house in the Thirty-seventh ward. Recently the club, which was organized in 1851 with a 25-year charter, was granted a perpetual charter. The club is not capitalized but meets its expenses through the generosity of its members, among whom are included many prominent business and professional men of Brushton, Wilkinsburg and the East End. It is said ground will be broken shortly for the new building which will include bowling alleys, billiard rooms, pool rooms, dining room, reading room and a large ballroom. The following committee has been named to look after the club's affairs the next year: George Mowery, Walter Geary, James Hutton, Robert Hays, Alexander Dewer, Thomas Boyd, Edward H. Boesinger and John M. Castor.

Butler street: Henry Appel sold to Edward Tanney an improved lot, 20x100 feet, on the north side of Butler street, Eighteenth ward, for $7,650.

J. W. Sherrer sold for Frank A. Hite to John P. Wilson, 25x100 feet on Williard street, Twenty-second ward, improved by a modern brick dwelling, for $5,000.

The final papers in an important realty deal in McKeesport will be closed today when a portion of the Hartman block in Fifth avenue, near Walnut street, will be transferred to William Nagel and John N. Dersam for about $35,000. The deal is being conducted by the United Realty Company. The property has a frontage of about 20 feet, and is now occupied by C. W. Kerr.

The Liberty Real Estate Trust Company is having good success in the selling of its plan of 153 lots in Vassar avenue, Gladefield and Grotto streets, and Lincoln avenue, Twenty-first ward. These lots are very desirable, being in a good neighborhood, and conveniently located. The company reports having sold 124 lots, and many buyers are planning to build homes.

Through the office of John A. Sharp, William Walker sold lot No. 27 in the Ingleside plan, Nineteenth ward, to James M. Hamilton for $800. The lot has a frontage of 25 feet in Rebecca street.

The Aronson Realty Company sold for Annie Haie to Michael Grand, 2163 Wylie avenue, a store and house on 20x76 feet, for $2,100.

Geneva street: Thomas McCaffrey sold for B. E. Tunstall to Esther Kennedy 20x100 feet in Geneva street, Seventeenth ward, for $850, and for Mary McMahon to August Gloeckler a brick house on 20x80 feet in Thirty-sixth street for $2,900.

Co., ironclad shop in Liberty avenue, to cost $2,500; to Samuel Harris, brick veneered dwelling in Murtland avenue, to cost $3,500; to J. P. Edwards, two frame dwellings in Webster avenue, $3,300; to S. S. West, frame dwelling in Stella street, to cost $1,800; to M. W. Maratta, brick veneered dwelling in Race street, to cost $3,000.

The Allegheny bureau of building inspection issued the following permits: To Morris Einstein, double frame two-story building for stores and dwellings on East street, near Madison avenue, Twelfth ward, to cost $5,000; to the National Casket Company, three one-story brick dry kilns on Chartiers street, near Ridge avenue, Fifth ward, to cost $7,000.

GENERAL FIRMNESS IN ALL LOCAL MARKET LINES

Trade in the local markets yesterday was exceedingly firm, all lines doing well and a good demand appearing for everything in sight. In the wholesale grocery trade, flour was the interesting feature. Conservative dealers say flour is as low now as it will be until the next wheat harvest. No. 1 wheat, which millers must have, is scarce. There will be none for export this year and the price is more likely to go up than down. At the same time it will not soar much above what it is at present, as the great corn and rye crop will have a tendency to keep it within bounds. Had these grains proved a failure, there is every probability that flour would have reached at least a dollar a barrel more by this time.

In produce there was a good trade yesterday, grocers laying in stock for their Saturday trade. Prices held firm in all lines. Quinces moved up a little and Brussels sprouts were shaded off, but there were no other changes. The dealers were well satisfied with the outlook. Farmers in the neighborhood of Pittsburgh are about through now for the season and there is comparatively little country produce being hauled into the city. Nearly all the stock in the local markets is shipped stuff.

Receipts of fruit and produce yesterday were: Apples, 1 car; bananas, 1 car; cabbage, 5 cars; grapes, 5 cars; oranges, 1 car; peaches, 6 cars; pineapples, 1 car; pears, 4 cars; potatoes, 20 cars; sweet potatoes, 4 cars; miscellaneous, 1 car.

HAY AND GRAIN RECEIPTS.

Receipts of hay and grain yesterday in the local railroad yards were as follows: Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, 3 cars hay, 4 cars oats, 1 car oats, rye and corn; Baltimore & Ohio, 2 cars oats, 3 cars hay, Pennsylvania lines, 6 cars corn, 3 cars feed, 13 cars hay, 7 cars oats, 1 car oats and corn, 2 cars rye, 1 car straw, 1 car bran.

The hay and grain market held firm all along the line yesterday. The supply was light, but just about enough to meet the demand, thus maintaining prices in all lines. The same conditions which have characterized the market for a week past prevailed yesterday. New corn is expected in some time next week and some change may be looked for in prices when it begins to arrive. Hay still maintains its price and the demand for best stock continues as great as ever.

Developments in the lower southwest failed to furnish anything better than light wells except in the Berea grit development, on Yellow creek, Calhoun county. The new wells in that district show a very fair average. Leonard, Carr and Gilmore have drilled in their test on the Richard-Bush farm and have a producer good for 150 barrels a day in the Berea formation. In the same district, the Guaranty Oil Company has drilled its No. 3 on the Martha M. Sommers farm through the Berea grit and has a show for a 100-barrel producer.

In the Bonds creek district, Ritchie county, Mallory Bros. & Stewart have completed their No. 8 on the Jacob Morrison farm and have a show for a 5-barrel pumper. In the same district, Hall, Gold, Zahniser & Co. have completed their No. 4 on the William McGregor farm and have a 5-barrel pumper in the Keener sand. The Hamburger Oil and Gas Company has drilled its second test on the J. H. Fleming farm through the Keener and Big Injun and has a duster in both.

West of Mannington, Marion county, the Delmar Oil Company's No. 9 on the Hays farm is still the best producer in the lower southwest. The last 24 hours' gauge showed a production of 350 barrels. In the old Fairview district the South Penn has given its No. 5 on the D. Jones farm a shot and it responded by producing 55 barrels the ensuing 18 hours. In the Salem district, Harrison county, the South Penn has drilled its No. 12 on the M. T. Williams farm 10 feet into the Gordon and it is showing for a 5 or 10-barrel pumper. In the Folsom district, Harrison county, the South Penn has drilled No. 13 on the G. W. Talkington farm to a depth of 3,275 feet and will go no deper. It will make a 15-barrel pumper in the Gordon. The same company has drilled its No. 4 on the Jesse Ashcraft farm 10 feet into the Gordon and has found no oil or gas.

On Whetstone run, Franklin district, Marshall county, the Tri-State Gas Company has completed its test on the William Ryan farm and has a light gasser in the Gordon. Near Dola, Battelle district, Monongalia county, the test drilled in by Carmichael & Co. on the Alfred Sines farm last week and made a good showing in the Big Injun, is now producing 20 barrels a day. In the Smithfield district, Wetzel county, the South Penn has completed Nos. 3 and 4 on the Alfred Batson farm and both are gassers in the fourth sand. Neither will be drilled deeper.

In the Mt. Morris district, Greene county, Pa., John L. Dunn & Co. have completed a test on the Elias Grim farm and have a show for a 10-barrel pumper. In the same district the South Penn Oil Company has completed a test on the U. M. Wood farm and has a show for a small well, not good for more than 5 barrels a day.

In the new development on the Ohio side, in Monroe county, the Southern Oil Company has completed its second test on the Henry Friday farm and has a show for a 5-barrel producer in the Big Lime. In the same district, the Unity Oil Company has drilled its No. 6 on the George Givens farm through the Keener and has a duster. In the Graysville district the Carter Oil Company has drilled its second test on the John Dougherty farm through the Berea grit and will not have better than a 2-barrel pumper. In the Rinards Mills district, the Pure Oil Company has completed its No. 8 on the Jacob McVey farm and has a duster in the Berea grit. In the Newport district, Washington county, the Boston Oil Company has completed its No. 12 on the Gracey Sears' farm and has a show for a 10-barrel pumper in the Cow Run sand. In the Plum Run district, Harrison county, the National Oil Company of Titusville has completed its No. 15 on the Jane L. Clark farm and has a 5-barrel pumper. No. 16 on the same farm has been drilled in and is showing for a 10-barrel pumper. In the same district the Trimmer Development Company has completed a test on the S. Wagoner farm and has a show for a very light pumper in the Berea grit.

Supreme Court Refuses to Advance Test Suit of Sealers of Weights and Measures.

FEDERAL COURT JURY LIST

The supreme court refused yesterday to advance the case of the commonwealth vs. T. B. Brown, an appeal from the Dauphin county courts, which is to test the law authorizing the appointment of sealers of weights and measures. It will not be heard until May, and the appointees cannot assume office until after a decision is rendered.

Three cases from Washington county were argued. They were James S. Watson and others, appellants, vs. Albert and J. C. Smith, an action turning on the construction of a mill; James W. McCullough and others vs. the Johnetta Coal Company, appellant, an action to settle the title of real estate; Dunbar & Wallace Lumber Company vs. the Washington Foundry and Machine Company, appeal of the McClure Company, an action over the assets of the Washington Foundry and Machine Company, which went into the hands of a receiver.

In the suit of the Keystone Wrapping Machine Company against Charles Bromeier, an action to recover on an alleged stock subscription, an affidavit of defense was filed. Bromeier says he did not enter into any agreement for the purchase of any stock, but called at the office of a promoter of the company and examined a machine. He says subsequently he was called upon to sign notes for stock subscription, which he refused to do.

A. D. Jeffries and his wife entered suit against George Erdner for $225 for the loss of an oak shade tree, which they aver the defendant cut down and hauled away from their lot in Avalon.

In the United States circuit court a hearing on the motion for a preliminary injunction in the case of the Fowler Manufacturing Company against the National Radiator Company was argued. The defendant company is charged with infringing on a patent.

In the juvenile court eight Homestead boys were given a hearing and seven convicted. C. R. Vollowe charged them with stealing $101.66 from his store. The boys were Jacob Rouser, John and Jesse Lilly, Norman Charleston, John Bolinger, William Neil, Dick Stevens and Frank Anderson. Bolinger was acquitted and discharged. The others were committed to the detention room for a week to give their parents a chance to return the stolen money. John Washington was convicted of stealing $150 from a Smithfield street store. The money has been returned and the boy was sent home.

Two men will be tried next week in the criminal court for murder. On Monday Mike Vanchzura will be tried for shooting and killing Peter Sadosky, a coal miner of Moon Run, on August 8, and on Wednesday Ginnano will be tried for shooting Gaetino Merino of Bessemer on March 12.

Giuiseppe Capristo and Leonardo Perri were yesterday sent to the workhouse for four months for assault, and Joseph Stern was sent up for 90 days for larceny.

A libel in divorce was filed by Sarah E. Storey against Charles A. Storey, alleging desertion. Decrees in divorce were granted in the suits of Sarah H. Boyd against George W. Boyd and Luella B. Keck against William H. Keck, both on the grounds of indignities to the person.

The following executions were issued: Iron City Savings & Loan association use Mortgage Banking Co., assigne, vs. Robert L. Henderson and Joseph H. HAYMAKER TELLS OF DIFFICULTIES

Valuable Information About Grafting Known to Allegheny Women.

FUTURE PROMISES ACTION

Attorney John C. Haymaker, who, with John Marron, has been retained by the district attorney to manage the investigation into the charges of graft made against Allegheny police officials, denies the investigation is to fall flat. The apparent inactivity of the prosecuting attorneys, Mr. Haymaker says, is justified by circumstances. Nothing will be done until every detail having any important bearing on the case is well in hand and ready for presentation to the court.

"No one can realize the difficulties we have encountered since we started this investigation," says Mr. Haymaker. "Whole days are spent in running down some seemingly valuable clue that in the end proves a myth. This has so often been the case that the patience of every one interested is about exhausted. The delay in the past few days has of course been coincident to the illness of Mr. Marron. But you may be sure we have not gone as far as we mean to with this affair. Things will take shape at the proper time, and if the investigation is not successful in its object it will at least teach some persons the value of truth.

"For weeks we have had daily conferences with women who have information that would make our task easy if they would give it up. Time and again we have confronted these women with persons to whom they told that they had paid certain sums to certain police officials, and in each instance the women make denials.

"Our movements have been watched by detectives from the Allegheny front office, witnesses have been tampered with; some have been intimidated and have confessed it. Scores of people have demanded indignantly that we start operations at once. They declare that grafting in every form is being done in Allegheny, but when we ask if they will swear to the existence of these things or even give us some information that will assist us, they express their inability to do it. When all preparations are made and we are in position to present to the grand jury positive evidence of guilt, then we will go ahead, and not until then."

New Method for Preservation of Engine Boilers a Success

A. R. Raymer, assistant chief engineer of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad, read a paper before the Western Railway club at Chicago last Wednesday on "A Marked Advance in Locomotive Boiler Maintenance," which describes a new method of emptying and filling boilers at roundhouses, used by the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie at McKees Rocks. The plant which he describes was put into use last November and by it the foul water is removed from locomotive boilers; the heat is saved and used in heating the water for refilling, and the boiler is refilled with water having a temperature of about 300 degrees Fahrenheit, the whole operation requiring from 20 to 35 minutes, depending on the size of the boiler.

The interstate commerce commission has fixed November 21, at Philadelphia, as the time and place for a further hearing in the matter of differential freight rates to and from North Atlantic ports. At the previous hearings held a few months ago in New York, the commission was presented with a petition to abolish freight differentials. The roads entering Philadelphia, Baltimore, Pittsburgh and other terminal points will present an array of facts and figures to show why these differentials should not be disturbed.

NO CHANGES IN BOUNDARY LINES

AID FOR WOMEN'S COLLEGE

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

OXFORD, PA., Oct. 21.—A warm discussion was indulged in by the Presbyterian synod today on the report on the readjustment of presbyterial lines, which recommended that a committee be appointed to report on the subject next year. The Rev. Dr. James M. Duff of Pittsburgh offered an amendment, proposing to drop the matter and stop harmful agitation. He went into a detailed statement of the case and held that the synod had most improperly interfered without the request of a single presbytery. The whole agitation, he said, was based on the request of a single individual, the Rev. Dr. Jesse Bruce of Pittsburgh.

Dr. Duff held it was not a wise and equitable thing, nor for the edification of the church, that the matter should be agitated. He held Washington presbytery is still a large presbytery and that no other presbytery had a brighter prospect and would soon recover all it had lost by the defection to Western Virginia, especially when the Cumberland Presbyterian churches are enrolled. He held the readjustment should be made from the point of view of the great presbytery of Pittsburgh and not from the exigency of Washington.

Plenty of Hot Speeches.

The Rev. Dr. Charles P. Cheeseman of Pittsburgh backed Dr. Duff's views with a warm speech, and seconded the motion to drop the business. He held that one man only representing nobody but himself had precipitated the troublesome agitation.

The Rev. S. A. Hunter thought county lines would be the right basis for the formation of presbyteries, and he proposed a second amendment to cover the whole synod of Pennsylvania. He held that Washington presbytery could take care of the churches it would receive. The Rev. Dr. Edwin Wallace said there is enough turmoil now in Western Pennsylvania without dragging in the whole state. No church, he said, will be taken from the Blairsville presbytery without a fight. There was a run of hot speeches, all sorts of threats and intimations, closing with the passage of a motion to lay on the table, made by the Rev. Dr. William Jones Gregory of Mansfield.

There was a heavy minority vote against the motion, but as soon as it passed there was a long-continued buzz of satisfaction, with broad smiles on the faces of the Pittsburgh men. On account of the disposition of the subject several commissioners left for their homes. The Rev. F. A. Vernon of Washington presbytery filed a protest against the action of the synod as hasty and a committee of synod, composed of the Rev. Drs. Gregory, Duff and Wallace, was appointed to answer the protest.

Boom for Women's College.

The Pennsylvania College for Women, located in Pittsburgh, received a big boom in the synod today through the address of the new president, the Rev. Dr. Samuel Alexander Martin, who secured the indorsement of the synod for a large endowment and strong resolutions of support. He said that "so far the great Presbyterian church has done nothing, absolutely nothing, for the education of her daughters;" that Pennsylvania college had been attempting the impossible from the beginning and had now a debt of $75,000, which is increasing, and that the school must be closed this year unless presbyteries came to the rescue and give the college a fighting chance. Dr. Martin then declared: "It's now up to you, gentlemen, whether this college shall live or die."

He asked for $100,000 for endowment and the payment of the $75,000 debt, and held that it will be to the everlasting disgrace not only of Pittsburgh but of the synod of Pennsylvania if the college is allowed to die. A committee was appointed to help Pittsburgh and Allegheny to raise the money.

The Rev. Dr. Charles P. Cheeseman of Pittsburgh read resolutions indorsing the Blairsville College for Women, and the president, the Rev. Samuel B. Linhart of Pittsburgh, made an address in the interest of his college.

Routine addresses were made by the Rev. Dr. John R. Davies of Philadelphia, the Rev. Dr. John Fox and the Rev. Dr. George L. Shearer of New York, respectively on the subjects, "Sunday School Work," "The American Bible Society," and the "American Tract Society."

The Rev. Dr. C. C. Hays of Johnstown highly eulogized Miss Linker for her work among the foreigners at Windber and other coal towns around Johnstown.

West Virginia's Message.

A pleasant incident in the proceedings of the synod was the reception of a message of congratulation from the synod of West Virginia, now holding its first session in Parkersburg. A reciprocal message was returned, signed by the moderator and clerk.

The narrative showed the condition of the churches to be as good as usual and but 27 ministers of the synod had died the past year.

Great interest is taken by the synod in the call from the Second Presbyterian church of Cincinnati for the pastoral services of the Rev. Dr. Robert Watson, pastor of the Oxford church. Until recently this church was the wealthiest west of the Allegheny mountains, but within one year it has lost 15 millionaires. Alexander McDonald, the Standard Oil Company magnate, has, however, returned to Cincinnati from New York and strengthened the church financially. It has a membership of 450.

It is acknowledged that the strong men of the synod are from Western Pennsylvania presbyteries, such men as the Rev. Dr. Joseph M. Duff of Carnegie, the Rev. Dr. Stephen A. Hunter of Pittsburgh, the Rev. Dr. John Calvin Milory of West Newton, the Rev. Dr. Antony A. Mealey of Bridgeville, the Rev. Dr. Edwin S. Wallace of Greensburg, late consul to Jerusalem, the Rev. Dr. George Alexander B. Robinson of Parker, and others, and yet not one of these men has a place on the long printed program of the synod.

The synod enrolls about 200 members, but it is easily and royally entertained in the village of Oxford, the smallest place which ever undertook to entertain this body. Invitations from the larger cities and towns are called for, and it is understood the synod will go next year to the First Presbyterian church of Allegheny, the Rev. Dr. David S. Kennedy pastor.

Church Anniversary Celebrated.

WASHINGTON, PA., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—The Third United Presbyterian church of Washington today celebrated the tenth anniversary of its founding. The Rev. A. G. Wallace of Sewickley presided at the morning and the Rev. Alexander Gilchrist of Pittsburgh at the afternoon sessions, and an address was made by the Rev. D. F. McGill of Allegheny. In the evening the Rev. J. T. McCrory of Pittsburgh spoke.

SALES AND SHIPMENTS SHOW MORE CONSUMPTION

Week Marked by Heavy Transactions and Advancing Prices for Pig Iron.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—In their weekly summary, Rogers, Brown & Company say:

"The week has been an active one, marked by heavy transactions and advancing prices for pig iron. In eastern markets sales of basic iron are reported on a larger scale than at any time this year, and the foundry grades have not been far behind.

"It is not apparent that steelmakers and foundrymen have suddenly found their orders increase on any such scale as recent purchases of pig iron would indicate. The volume of sales and shipments, however, both amply prove that consumption is continuing to grow. In sympathy with the rest of the business community consumers of pig iron have come to believe that the country's business is bound to improve very materially in the coming year. Simultaneously they seem to have grasped the fact that pig iron has been selling too low; that their own yards are practically bare of stocks and that furnace reserves are dwindling. As a result a good many buyers have decided to cover not only their actual requirements, but also to provide for further improvement of business, which they confidently expect in the near future."

THIEF SHOT HIMSELF WHEN HE WAS PURSUED

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 21.—A daring attempt was made today to rob the J. S. Mundy machine works. The thief succeeded in carrying off several packages of money amounting to $1,271, but was pursued and caught. Just as his pursuers reached him he placed a revolver at his head and fired twice, inflicting probably mortal wounds. He said his name was James Wilson.

We Will Buy

We want you to know about Liquozone, and the product itself can tell you more than we. So we ask you to let us buy you a bottle—a full-size bottle—to try. Let it prove that it does what medicine cannot do. See what a tonic it is. Learn that it does kill germs. Then you will use it always, as we do, and as millions of others do.

This offer itself should convince you that Liquozone does as we claim. We would certainly not buy a bottle and give it to you if there was any doubt of results. You want those results; you want to be well and to keep well. And you can't do that—nobody can—without Liquozone.

We Paid $100,000

For the American rights to Liquozone. We did this after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, after proving in thousands of different cases that Liquozone destroys the cause of any germ disease.

Liquozone has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. It is not made by compounding drugs, nor with alcohol. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.

There lies the great value of Liquozone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissue, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Every physician knows that medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed the disease must end and forever. That is inevitable.
